In The Next Three Minutes YOU May Take The Most IMPORTANT STEP of Your LIFE

THE next few minutes may prove to be a vital turning point in your life.

During them, you may do something that hundreds of other traffic men already have done—something that has shown them the way to bigger jobs, better pay, real business success.

That "something" is to send for all the facts about traffic management training—to discover for yourself how LaSalle traffic training may fit you (as it has so many others) for an executive position in your chosen field.

Today, traffic opportunities are almost unlimited. Transportation is changing—expanding—finding countless new ways to serve business. Swift streamlined trains, improved truck service and airlines, have speeded up freight schedules. New legislation, rates, regulations, competition—all have created important new problems that only trained men can solve.

And because of these facts you—already started in the field—have a marvelous opportunity to show your employers how well you understand these problems, how you can save them money, delays, replacements, and loss of good will through a correct handling of traffic problems.

Supervising the packing, marking, weighing and shipping of freight—auditing freight bills—preparing, presenting and collecting damage claims—choosing economical containers—selecting money-saving and serviceable routes—tracing over-due shipments—securing more favorable rates—advising on strategic distributing methods—these and dozens of other opportunities to show value to an employer are waiting the trained man. And LaSalle is waiting to train that man—you!

For it's only a well-trained traffic man who can handle such duties well. And while you can learn some of the fundamentals from personal experience, you cannot learn to be an expert by picking up things as you go. Training—particularly LaSalle traffic training which has been built by traffic experts and is taught by traffic experts—alone will fit you for the top executive jobs in your field.

Are you one of the men content to drift? Or are you determined to get ahead—reach those top positions?

If you are ambitious, LaSalle training by the Problem Method can quickly fit you to really go places. Even if you were given permission to work daily with an expert traffic executive, you could not surpass the thoroughness and comprehensiveness of the LaSalle traffic management training. For not one, but 175 traffic experts helped mould LaSalle's training. And other experts teach it—keep it up-to-date—make it practical.

Under the LaSalle Problem Method of training, every step you take is perfectly clear. There are no unexplained technicalities to bother you. Step by step you learn to meet problems, and solve them. The work is practical, vital, interesting. A minimum of theory is taught. A maximum of practice is demanded. When you're graduated, you are fitted for a better position.

Will you then get such a position? No one can guarantee it, but hundreds have been promoted as a result of their LaSalle training.

Find Out for Yourself—FREE!

Let us send you—absolutely free—our 48-page free book which describes fully the opportunities in traffic management and LaSalle's training that fits you for those opportunities. Don't let these three minutes pass in vain—send now the convenient coupon below. This may be the turning point in your life!

WHEN A WAREHOUSE BURNS...

Destruction of stored goods when a warehouse burns usually causes intangible losses and inconvenience to customers far beyond the physical loss.

When a warehouse burns...destruction of a shipper's merchandise may result in inability to make promised deliveries on time...delays in replacing damaged stocks...disruption of distribution schedules...as well as other intangible and uninsurable losses, which often hurt more than the physical loss involved.

The best safeguard for your spot stocks and stored goods is to select warehouses that provide complete and modern fire protection measures, including A.D.T. Electric Fire Protection Services* to reduce to the minimum the likelihood of a fire ever becoming big enough to do serious damage.

And against burglary, too, progressive warehousemen provide the protection of A.D.T. Automatic Burglar and Holdup Alarm Systems.

Look for the words "A.D.T. Service" in the listings and advertisements in this Directory.

*A. D. T. Central Station Protection Services include: Sprinkler Supervisory and Waterflow Alarm; Aero Automatic Fire Alarm; Manual Fire Alarm; Watchman Supervision; Burglar Alarm; Holdup Alarm. Descriptive booklets gladly supplied on request.

On the Water in 1940

WORLD shipping at the beginning of the year is makeshift; regular lines and sailings have been reduced, diverted or discontinued.

Substitute services to meet temporary conditions or emergencies have been set up entailing expensive delays to ships and extra precautions and regulations with red tape tied around each and every shipment. Every effort, however, is being made to expedite shipments by cooperation of all agencies—so the new year is entered hopefully.

In the United States, transportation monopoly seems to be passing. The railroads are busy and preparing for even heavier tonnage and say they are prepared to absorb a 50 per cent increase without even straining themselves. If left alone, they could have performed in the same manner in the last war.

Inland waterways had a big 1939, particularly on the Great Lakes where the heaviest tonnage carried in 10 yrs. is just being finished in one of the latest seasons in history, as this is written late in December.

The Ohio, Mississippi, Missouri, Illinois rivers and tributaries have made great strides during the past year. Heavy investment of private capital in new equipment, now in service and being constructed, indicates that the Federal government's river improvements and demonstration of the value of water transportation have developed transportation lines in competition with the Federal Barge Lines' own operation, which is exactly what was expected.

This proves that the American public and the American shipper are going to give low grade products a ride on the water to save some money and at the same time enjoy the luxurious new trains and lower rates of passenger travel, also to divide the hurry-up freight with the railroads and truck lines—whichever serves the best.

The United States undoubtedly has the greatest transportation system in the world—rail, water, truck and airways, and the ever-present and big factor, the private automobile. There is room for all and they should cooperate at fair and reasonable and profitable rates—it doesn't pay to fight.

Free Trade in Our States

IT was never intended under our federal Constitution to permit the states to interfere in any way with interstate commerce. Trade control within the United States is vested by the Constitution in Congress alone. Today, we see a greatly changed picture, one in which the states in many respects may be looked upon as 48 separate countries, each with protectionist laws acting as trade barriers to the free flow of merchandise and transportation equipment.

In one state alone 26 licensing bills were proposed by as many business groups to stifle competition from out of the state. Business licensing laws are the consideration of every state legislative session. Altogether, more than 200 bills were introduced into 44 state legislatures in 1939 with the objective of stopping the free flow of business. Laws have even been considered to prevent trades people from delivering food and merchandise, unless licensed, from the home town to an adjacent one.

The question, therefore, is whether under the above conditions the United States is now a single economic unit. Has industry free access to the largest and most prosperous single market in the entire world, a condition that was considered not so long ago as primarily the one reason for our industrial expansion and our standard of living? The answer is easy to understand. Eventually, unless this situation is cleared up and state restrictions to free enterprise removed, the country as a whole will be injured to an incalculable extent.

Labor Laws

INDUSTRIES which formerly considered themselves exempt from Federal legislation under the Wage-and-Hour Division requirements now find the opposite to be true as a result of an important court decision, new Labor Board rulings and a new interpretative bulletin.

The Wage-and-Hour law was held constitutional in a suit brought by the Wage-and-Hour Administrator to force Montgomery & Ward to produce its records. The U. S. District Court in northern Illinois held also that Congress has the power to require an employer to keep records of the wages and hours and that the Administrator has the power to require production of these records whenever he desires.

While the Wage-and-Hour sections of the law were held constitutional, there was clear indication in the Court's decision that certain other portions of the Act might be held unconstitutional when the U. S. Supreme Court finally rules. According to the Research Institute of America, Inc., every important section will be held constitutional and if any of the sections are held otherwise, they will be separable from the rest of the Act.

An increasing number of Wage-and-Hour cases and a mounting record of successful prosecutions, fines and penalties make it clear that a substantial percentage of American business is vulnerable as to keeping the required records. The requirements are as follows:

1—No definite type of form is necessary. 2—Records must be kept either at the place of employment or at an office of the employer in the same state. 3—Records must be kept at least 4 yrs. and be open for inspection and transcription by Wage-and-Hour Division representatives. 4—Employer must keep record of full name, home address, and occupation of all he considers exempt from the Wage-and-Hour provisions. 5—With the exception of exempt employees, the following is necessary for each employee: (a) name in full; (b) home address; (c) date of birth if under 19; (d) hours worked each workday and each workweek, including overtime hours; (e) total wages paid each workweek; (f) date of payment; (g) regular hourly rate of pay and basis upon which wages are paid; (h) earnings are regular hourly rate of pay for each workweek; and (i) extra earnings for overtime.

In one of the most important Wage-and-Hour interpretations yet issued, the Division held that employees are covered by the Act when engaged in manufacturing machines, tools and dies which do not in themselves move in interstate commerce, but which are used by a subsequent manufacturer for the production of goods which do move in interstate commerce. If the Administrator is sustained (and it is thought likely that he will be) it will be equally true that all employees manufacturing any goods which are subsequently used to manufacture other goods will be covered by the Act if the ultimately manufactured goods move across state lines.

Strike Tie-Up at San Francisco

UP to Dec. 14, distribution processes, and to some extent warehousing, have been seriously disturbed in San Francisco as well as in parts of the state serving or depending on San Francisco as a result of the month-old waterfront tie-up which resulted from the strike of the Ship Clerks' Union over a bitterly contested preferential hiring issue. No ship-borne cargo is going out of, or coming into San Francisco as all shipping companies are ordering vessels stopped at San Pedro.

Shippers awaiting cargoes in San Francisco are notified that their merchandise is being unloaded at the Los Angeles port, from which point they must be responsible for its transportation. Los Angeles warehouses are reported to be benefiting to some extent since some freight is being stored there; but since for the most part consignees are in immediate need of their cargoes they must have them brought from San Pedro to San Francisco by truck or rail. The ocean rate to either Los Angeles or San Francisco is the same, therefore, shipping companies have no responsibility for movement of goods after it reaches the San Pedro harbor and all goods transported to San Francisco from there are moved at the buyer's expense.

50% More Cargo North

Neither truckmen nor the railroads will relinquish any definite figures on the increase of business they are enjoying as a result of this situation but a conservative estimate is that it is in the neighborhood of 50 per cent between Los Angeles and San Francisco. Trucking lines operating between the two cities are fairly reliably reported to be doing double their normal business, with good loads both ways, but particularly Northbound. So far, the strike has not lasted long enough to cause wholesale diversion of shipment from San Francisco to Los Angeles, but there has been a small increase noted in interior shipments to the Southern city.

Railroads have noted considerable diversion of merchandise from valley points to Los Angeles, some increase in shipments South from San Francisco, and heavy shipments North from Los Angeles. Trains have been added to handle extra business. In San Pedro harbor, ships are reported to be waiting at anchor to unload cargoes, with preference in unloading being given to cargoes for the South.

While trucks and rails operating North and South have enjoyed considerable increase of business, trucks operating in and out of San Francisco to Fresno, San Joachim and Sacramento valleys, and other interior points in the San Francisco trading area are, in the words of Roy Thompson, secretary of the California Truck Owners' Assn., "practically stymied." The same is true of the draymen serving the San Francisco waterfront.

Fresh fruit exports out of San Francisco are in a serious way. Some 3,000 packages of grapes, destined for the Orient, stored in kegs and lugs in sawdust in cold storage, have not been able to leave San Francisco. The grapes must now be placed on the domestic market. Shippers are asking for an allowance on storage charges, and for refund or compromise on the toll of 25 cents per ton that is charged on shipments going into state facility for export. The Harbour Commission has denied the claim, but shippers are persisting in their demand that the toll is not collectible, since the goods cannot now be exported.

The Intercoastal Steamship Freight Assn. said that domestic shipping lines had recorded on their books one of the heaviest seasonal movements of California dried fruits and fresh fruits in a long time, also of wines, beans, grains and canned goods. Heavy consignments have been re-routed by rail and truck at increased cost. Coffee has also suffered. About 50,000 bags were reported tied up on ships in piers, but no shortage was expected.

Normal customs duties in this port amount to about $1,000,000 a month or more. This past month no more than $250,000 was reported taken. Millions of dollars are being lost to San Francisco and its people in wages, port revenue, and many ramifications of business as a result of the tie-up, which shows absolutely no indication of being settled in the near future, since both sides are unconciliatory so far as the basic issue is concerned.

Export Storage

Warehouses in San Francisco have gained in some respects what the strike may lose in other directions. In the long run, according to L. A. Bailey, secretary of the California Warehousemen's Assn., "such situations as the present waterfront tie-up do the warehouse industry no good." However, despite the diversion of some business to the South, warehouses here have benefited in some instances as a result of the storage of commodities, normally destined for export, which must now be held for the domestic market in the mid-west and east. Fresh fruits are among these. Private warehouses are reported to be heavily stocked with canned goods which ordinarily would have been moving for export.

The deadlock in shipping is caused by the Ship Clerks' demand for a preferential union hiring clause in the contract to be renewed, and insistence of the shipping men that they will never grant such a concession. A peculiarity of the controversy is that union men claim that in San Pedro, and other Pacific ports, ship clerks are already enjoying the working conditions claimed by their San Francisco clerks, and for which they struck, but which the shipping companies granting these privileges in other ports deny to the San Francisco union. The waterfront unions regard the employers' stand in this issue as an open shop drive and an attempt to break the strength of the Maritime Unions here. They claim that shipping companies' rerouting of ships away from San Francisco is unnecessary as there are a number of docks unstruck at which ships could unload in San Francisco; also that they could unload at Oakland port, closed for a time but now open. Shipping men admit that the latter claim is true, that ships could be unloaded here, but that the present waterfront labor situation in San Francisco is so serious that the issue must be settled once and for all, that this is a "fight to a finish" and in a determination to see it through, all shipping men are standing together and refusing to "scab" on one another.

Federal mediators William T. Geurts and Louis Bloch have both been attempting to straighten out the situation, so far without success, as employers have refused to arbitrate the issue. Roger Lapham, representing the waterfront employers, in the latter connection, remarked: "With the U. S. Maritime Labor Board a branch of (Harry) Bridges' C.I.O. union, I do not like to think what kind of arbitration we would get." In other words, shipping men feel that they can expect little help from the Federal government in giving them the support they look for.

Governor Culbert L. Olson has stepped into the picture with a proposal (or threat) to take state control over San Francisco harbor. The Governor's proposal is scheduled for possible action at the special legislative session to be called in January. Olson has appointed a special fact-finding committee on the waterfront situation, headed by Joseph F. Marias of the Harbour Board. Other members of the committee are Paul C. Smith, Dr. R. D. Calkins, O. K. Cushing and George Sehlmeyer, prominent San Francisco business and professional men. Employers have rejected in advance the proposal of the Governor that the State assume control of San Francisco harbor. The maritime unions are in favor of the plan.—Gidlow.

N. Y. Group Sponsors Regional A.W.A. Meetings

The 3rd annual get-together meeting of warehousemen in District No. 2, held Dec. 12 at the Hotel Commodore, New York City, an event sponsored by the American Warehousemen's Assn., and under the chairmanship of Charles Milbauer, went on record, as a result of the unanimous approval of the 30 odd members in attendance, to sponsor at the next annual meeting of the A.W.A. in Chicago a plan to hold at least 2 meetings annually in each of 8 sections of the country. Additional members of the executive committee would have to be appointed to handle the plan.

Each division or region, according to the plan, would be represented by an A.W.A. member of the executive committee, who would be responsible for calling the meetings, arranging the program and discussion and for bringing back to the executive committee a clear picture of conditions in his region. As a result of this first-hand assemblage of facts, regions not now represented in the annual meeting discussions and program would be heard and the meeting would thus have more widespread interest.

It was stated that as a result of the New York meeting, a get-together of warehousemen in the New England and Middle Atlantic states will be held in April or May. The thought was that it should be a 2-day affair, 1 of which could be devoted to meetings of the individual state groups and the other to a joint session.

A. B. Drake, who acted as toastmaster, presented the regional plan for discussion and action. His program also included a discussion of the New York Free Zone and its threat to warehousemen nationally. Walter Hegeman pointed out that though the New York Foreign Trade Zone controversy may seem to be purely a local affair, it really is a serious matter for warehousemen to consider nationally. He stated that representatives of the New York Zone are fostering free ports in other cities along the coastlines. If such a movement should grow and become an actuality, warehousemen in general would be affected through loss of business, as has occurred already in New York City. At the present time, the free zone at Staten Island is transshipping only 3 per cent of its tonnage and storing 97 per cent at rates far below the public warehouse scale. This is contrary to the original conception of how the free port would operate. Mr. Hegeman stated that all warehousemen should strive in their respective districts to acquaint their representatives at Washington with the true facts with the eventual object in mind of having the Foreign Trade Zones Act annulled. There is no justification for the existence of such zones in the United States, because every service rendered therein is already in existence through the use of bonded warehouses or by virtue of Federal drawback laws.

A.W.I. to Hold 2-Day Meeting

In selecting Jan. 26 and 27 for its annual meeting at the Bismarck Hotel in Chicago, the Associated Warehouses, Inc., had in mind not only the Canners Convention, held the same week in Chicago, but the A.W.A. convention scheduled 4 days later in the same city. Thus A.W.I. members are given an opportunity to attend either or both conventions conveniently. Sales plans will be discussed for the most part and new ideas and methods of selling warehouse service will be included. Attendance is expected to be larger than usual.

A. D. Bullock, managing director and treasurer of the Security Storage Co., Cincinnati, and for several years past on the directorate of the National Furniture Warehousemen's Assn., has been nominated to the presidency of the N.F.W.A. for 1940, replacing William T. TRAFFIC MANAGEMENT BILL PROPOSED FOR PENNA.

Is Modeled Somewhat on the Ohio Bill. May Be Entirely Rewritten or Amended So As to Suit Majority Opinion of Those Now Engaged or Interested in Traffic Work.

BY ARTHUR C. ROY.
Traffic Manager, D. L. Clark Co., Pittsburgh, Pa.

RAPID strides have been made in the past few months toward recognition and legislation necessary to elevate traffic management to its proper place among the various professions. Certainly those responsible for the carrying on of this task deserve the honest applause of those now engaged in the transportation field.

The move to professionalize has received the blessings of the Association of Practitioners, the National Industrial Traffic League and the Associated Traffic Clubs; no obstacles now but the proper plan of procedure should stand in the way of the realization of the goal.

Whatever that plan turns out to be, regardless of whether or not it meets with our own individual desires, let us join hands and concentrate on the setting up of the proper organizations, regulations, etc., or whatever may be necessary. This idea has been carried along for the past decade but at no other time has enthusiasm been so advertised or so pronounced; that is why we must do our best now to insure success.

The first point I have noticed through my individual endeavors has been as to whether the movement could best be operated through a state or national group. My own opinion is of little consequence and I will work in behalf of any move dictated by majority opinion. There is much to be said for both sides as to the proper means of regulation, this matter having been covered in earlier articles by F. A. Keeling.

It is my understanding that moves are being formulated for the calling of a national meeting. If this is done, transportation men should immediately back up the movement forgetting whatever plans might be in the process of compilation insofar as individual state organization is concerned. If the majority opinion favors state movements first, then the national organization should follow. Either plan in my estimation is much better than no plan at all.

For the consideration of the state adherents, especially those engaged in the practice of traffic management within the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, the following possible legislation is submitted. These measures, of course, should only be considered in the light of providing a regulation standard and should be changed according to the wills of the majority of transportation men now practicing in Pennsylvania.

To those of you who have read the Ohio bill drafted by Edwin Reminger and John Sanford, you will note a slight difference when compared with the Pennsylvania bill. The latter in itself does not provide for expenses for the board, oaths of office, independent section clause, etc. This and other matters become part of the bills through the operation of the Administrative Code in 1929 and amendments thereto. Other portions of the bill follow very closely the outline established by the Ohio bill and the writer is indebted to Messrs. Reminger and Sanford for giving him a copy of their legislation.

In the foreword of the proposed bill, it is noted that the Administrative Code of 1929 of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania necessitates that two separate and distinct bills be enacted; one to professionalize the industry and the other to set up the governing body under the supervision of the Department of Public Instruction. It is also noted that as yet the proposed bill has not been presented to any legislative body and may be entirely rewritten or amended so as to suit the majority opinion of those now engaged or interested in traffic work in Pennsylvania.

My personal opinion, as noted in the foreword, is that the wisest course to follow to professionalize the industry of traffic management is to hold meetings locally, set up essential organization, appoint committees to meet with committees from other local organizations throughout the state with the idea of drafting and discussing necessary legislation, and also to work towards the formation of a governing state or national association or institute. It is only through cooperation of this kind that any pressure may be exerted on the proper political bodies or any degree of success attained.

The bill in part reads as follows:

"An Act relating to the practice of the occupation or business of industrial traffic management; refining and providing for the licensing and registration of certified industrial traffic managers, and for the revocation and suspension of such licenses and registrations, subject to appeal, and for their reinstatements; defining the powers and duties of the State Board of Examiners of Certified Industrial Traffic Managers and the Department of Public Instruction; and providing penalties."

Section 1—Short Title—this act shall be known and may be cited, as "The Traffic Manager's Law."

Section 2—Definitions—A person engages in the "Practice of Industrial Traffic Management," within the meaning of this act, who plans or supervises in an executive capacity the shipping, transportation or receiving of goods, wares or merchandise for another or others for compensation, or who appears for and represents another or others before any state or federal transportation regulatory body.

The term "Practice of Industrial Traffic Management" does not include practice by an attorney-at-law before any state or federal transportation regulatory body.

In Section 3, general powers of the State Board of Examiners are outlined. The board would be given the power to establish and alter, from time to time, the standards of preliminary and professional education and the training required to practice as a certified industrial traffic manager. It would also investigate and determine the acceptability of institutions of learning, regulate the licensing and examine applicants at least 21 yrs. old. Certified traffic managers from other states would be permitted to practice upon payment of a fee and providing that the standards of their respective states are approved and that these states reciprocate in recognizing as valid Pennsylvania licenses.

The Board would also prescribe the professional title or other designation of those licensed and prosecute

THE CHALLENGE OF A NEW YEAR

By F. A. KEELING

TRAFFIC managers are the logical sponsors of a professional institute for their vocation, according to the majority opinion of those who answered letters in which the question of sponsorship was proposed.

The recent blessing of the Big Three traffic organizations represents a challenge to traffic managers to prove that they can accomplish what other professions have done. The "Go Ahead" signal is on and it is now up to them to complete the good work that was accomplished in 1939. The year 1940 should stand out historically as the year in which a National Institute came into being, with all 48 states represented.

In my article "Making the Institute Dream Come True," published in the January, 1939, issue of DandW, I stated that if every traffic manager would become active, there would be councils in the 48 states and a National Institute organized before January, 1940. This statement was made because I believed that after the list of state key men was published, interested traffic managers in every state would immediately write to their key men and request that a state meeting be called and a council organized. Why they failed to do so, they alone can answer.

In numerous articles I presented arguments in favor of organizing state councils before organizing a National Institute. In doing this I was presenting the views from traffic managers as well as those published in transportation journals. The organizing of state councils prior to a national council, it was argued, would give every state a voice in the formation of a National Institute and the election of national officers. To organize a National Institute first would be putting the cart before the horse and open the gates for a clique, one-man or executive committee control.

The fact that in many states, bills have been prepared which will be presented to the next legislative assemblies, and because some of these bills are not uniform in requirements, there now seems to be a demand for a national organization that will prepare a bill that would serve as a standard for all states. This standard bill would insure or assure traffic managers who move from one state to another that their certification or C.T.M. designation would be acceptable in every state.

Certainly, this is a commendable desire for traffic managers, as members of other professions sometimes find that their present places of residence or employment are not permanent abiding places. However, 2 questions need to be considered by those who believe that a uniform or standard bill should be prepared for adoption in every state.

1—Is such a standard bill necessary in order to insure the acceptance of a traffic manager's certification in all states? That is, must the requirements for grandfather rights as well as theoretical and practical experience required of those who expect to prepare for the C.T.M. examination be identical in order to obtain the desired acceptance of certification in all states?

2—Will traffic managers in all states accept a standard bill?

In commenting on question No. 1, attention is called to the fact that in some of the oldest professions there are differences in the educational requirements of the various state boards and yet the members in moving to other states do not seem to be troubled in practicing in the new locations.

For over 75 yrs., the widely known Cumberland University School of Law at Lebanon, Tenn., has offered a 1-yr. law course and graduates of this school are found in practically every state. One graduate is now dean of a large Eastern university law school, while others have moved up to even the highest courts and one is an attorney general of the United States.

Although the American Bar Assn. has sought to rule the various state associations, it will be found that the standardized course of this association is not desirable to all states. In the article, "Legislation, Politicians and Education for Traffic Management" published in an earlier issue of DandW, ample proof was given to show that in the legal profession, the standardized course of study and entrance requirements of the American Bar Assn. is not at present considered necessary or desirable in all states.

The same condition is found in the engineering profession. One of the most widely known schools, whose graduates have brought honor to their Alma Mater, even in foreign lands, confers the B.S. degree upon the successful completion of a 2-yr. course to enter this school. A high school diploma is all that is required. Graduates of this school are found in the various engineering professional societies.

Other professions could likewise be commented on, but an investigation will prove that even though the requirements of the state societies and boards are not in agreement, the members of these professions have made provision for members from other states. Surely, traffic managers can do likewise, especially in the beginning.

In answer to the second question, "Will traffic managers in all states accept a standard bill?", I would truly be most happy if a bill can be prepared that will meet the approval of traffic managers in every state. However, judging from letters in which comments are made on various state bills now out for inspection, it seems that the "Doctrine of States Rights" will be considered in the various states as applying to traffic management and the obtaining of legislative recognition.

The all-important question now confronting traffic managers is "Will they accept the challenge of a new year?" The "Go Ahead" signal calls for action, if a national organization is now considered necessary in order to assure uniformity in requirements for entrance or membership in the proposed institute. Then let a national meeting be called.

Such a meeting should include men from every state.

In the meanwhile, however, state council programs will be carried on as usual, for the purpose of the proposed National Institute is only to serve in an advisory and propagative capacity for expediting the formation of councils in all states.

The American Institute of Accounting has often been referred to as the ideal national professional body and that traffic managers would do well to use a similar pattern in a national set-up. I agree with this and therefore suggest that a copy of the by-laws and rules of that organization be consulted as a guide.

If 2 college students were able to start a national organization, surely the time has arrived for traffic managers to prove that they can do the same just as well. Otherwise, they must confess that their vocation is unworthy of a professional status.

It must be admitted that much progress was made in 1939 and that a state of reality is fast approaching.

The writer, who has lately been forced to take a rest, regrets that more progress was not accomplished, but realizes now that overtaxing for the sake of crusading only ends up in financial and physical deterioration, as well as suffering. The only reward I seek is that traffic managers accept the challenge of the new year by united work to bring into fulfillment a National Institute by 1941.

those who illegally use same.

Section 4 prescribes the fees, which are as follows: all licenses without examination, $10; examinations, $10; annual registration fee, $2; and reinstatement of all lapsed licenses, $5. All licensed persons shall be required to register annually.

Section 8 covers the licensing of existing traffic managers and states:

Section 8 covers the licensing of existing traffic managers and states: "The board shall license, upon application, without examination, any person who, at the time of taking effect of this act, was actually engaged in the practice of industrial traffic management in this Commonwealth, and who had been engaged in traffic work pertaining to the transportation of property continuously for a period not less than 5 yrs. next preceding such time, the 3 yrs. of which period immediately preceding such effective date shall have been in the practice of industrial traffic management, as herein defined. The board shall make such rules and regulations as it deems necessary to determine the eligibility of any person for a license under the provisions of this section. All applications for licenses under the provisions of this section must be made before the 31st day of December of the year in which this act becomes effective."

Violations for failure to become licensed, registered, etc., call for a fine of $500 or imprisonment of 6 mos., or both, in the discretion of the court.

The State Board of Examiners would consist of the superintendent of public instruction, ex officio, and 5 members, 2 of whom are to be appointed from the Eastern part of the state, 2 from the Western section, and 1 from the Central part. All examiners must be licensed and registered to practice as certified industrial traffic managers in Pennsylvania and must have been engaged in traffic work for not less than 15 yrs., 10 of which must have been spent in practicing as an industrial traffic manager and the balance in the business of railroads, motor carriers, air lines, water carriers, the I.C.C. or various state public utility regulatory commissions.

The term of each examiner would be 4 yrs. with reappointment possible through action of the Governor.

I.C.C. Establishes Trainload Rates Basis

The Interstate Commerce Commission on Dec. 14 established a new policy in rail rate making when it approved, in principle, the establishment of a trainload rate on blackstrap molasses from New Orleans, La., to Peoria and Pekin, Ill.

The decision (I. and S. 4645) was as a result of an application of the Illinois Central, Missouri Pacific and other railroads to establish a rate of 14 cents per 100 lbs. on blackstrap, subject to a minimum weight of 1,800 tons.

Although the I.C.C. found this rate unreasonably low and ordered its cancellation, the agency declared that the rail lines might file an 1,800-ton rate no lower than 15 cents. The majority opinion held that there is nothing unlawful in the establishment of rates on quantities larger than carloads, when the movement is in a single shipment, and where the rates are designed to meet competition from other transportation forms which are not limited to single carloads.

The Commission added, however, that a just and reasonable relationship in rates between the larger and smaller quantities of the same traffic must be maintained in all cases.

Loss of blackstrap molasses traffic consigned to plants of the Commercial Solvents Corp. caused the Illinois Central to ask consideration of a new trainload rate basis. The Commercial Solvents Corp. in 1935 purchased a fleet of 8 barges to carry blackstrap from its plants at Harvey, La., to Peoria at less than rail costs. The company then told the carriers that it would quit this operation and use all-rail if the lines would adjust the trainload rate.

Joseph B. Eastman concurred in the opinion and declared that the I.C.C. in the past has considered it unlawful to give a trainload shipper a preference in rates over one who ships in carloads on the grounds that such preference would tend to concentrate business in the hands of large shippers contrary to public interest. He added, however, in the case of Commercial Solvents, that that company has a preference in being able to ship bargeload quantities of blackstrap at very low rates, which rates are lawful. He declared that the railroads are entitled to make rates on multiple carload quantities which reflect the advantages inherent in volume shipments so that they can compete with the existing water transportation.

Commissioner Claude R. Porter wrote a dissenting opinion, to which William E. Lee concurred. He stated that the trainload rate was held to be discriminatory and another step toward modern tendencies in rate making which should be checked. By granting carriers permission to establish lower rates between large cities, where there is much more competition than between less populated areas, and by the "recently devised scheme of all-commodity rates, and the mixing rules, the Commission is making it more difficult for small dealers to compete with large ones," he stated. The dissenting opinion also stated that the Commission since its inception has held that the small shipper is entitled to have his product carried at the same rate as the large shipper; that there has been no substantial change in conditions in recent years to overturn this view; that competition existed then as it does now and that "The Mississippi River was running to the sea then as now."

The Commercial Solvents Corp. will now move blackstrap molasses to Peoria from New Orleans at a 15-cent rate, while in Louisiana, the small producer who may send his shipment on the same train will be compelled to pay 2½ cents more for 100 lbs. or $23.25 for a carload.

The railroads were ordered to cancel the rates on or before Jan. 17, 1940.

Commission Orders Contracts Revised by Ship Conference

CONDEMNING the contract rate system in foreign commerce where it operates solely to effect a monopoly, the Maritime Commission on Dec. 1 ordered modification of contracts between shippers and 33 steamship conference lines, American and foreign, operating between United States Atlantic ports and Europe.

The carriers were given 70 days in which to comply with this order or face cancellation of conference agreements under which they were made.

This action follows hearings on protests of the States of Wisconsin, Michigan, Ohio and Indiana, which, through their attorneys-general, vigorously assailed the contracts, as had the legislature of the State of Michigan and various individual communities on the Great Lakes, including Milwaukee and Muskegon.

The contracts attacked obligate the shipper, including subsidiaries, affiliates and any agents of any of them, to offer to steamship companies for transportation to Europe all of its export shipments thereto "which must move via any United States or Canadian North Atlantic port or waterway." While made to cover a calendar year, provision is made for continuance throughout consecutive subsequent years, subject to termination by either party on 90 days. The rates, however, are subject to increase or decrease from time to time.

Violation of requirements permitted the carrier to terminate the contract, whereupon shipments previously carried thereunder during the particular yearly period involved, as well as future shipments, would be made subject to higher non-contract rates in effect at the time such shipments were made.

The effect has been to deprive the contracting shipper from patronizing a carrier, operating a direct service on the Great Lakes to Europe by way of the St. Lawrence River. Witnesses before the Commission testified that the difference between the non-contract and contract rates might average 20 per cent with a minimum of $2 per ton.

However, it was testified that the higher non-contract rates have not been applied retroactively for breach of contract, the penalty being confined to future shipments.

The Commission declared that a difference in rates for identical services based upon whether the carrier secures the shipper's entire patronage, is prima facie discriminatory.

Experiences of such exporters as Sears International, Chicago; McCord Radiator & Mfg. Co., Detroit; the Norge Division of Borg-Warner Co., with plants in Detroit and Muskegon, and Great Lakes Steel Corp., Detroit, in operating under the contract rate system, were related by the Commission.

These corporations told the Commission that direct steamship service has made it possible for them to expand their foreign trade and to enter new markets. They make use of the trans-shipping routes in winter. Some endeavor to hold their shipments for direct movement when the Great Lakes are open.

According to testimony, using direct service has the effect of reducing the higher cost of the rail-water movement during winter, enabling shippers to make c.i.f. quotations throughout the year in competition with exporters closer to the seaboard.

The Commission's finding stated that the contract rate system in foreign commerce, when based on regularity of consignments, number of shipments or quantity of merchandise furnished for transportation, is not unlawful per se, but it has been condemned where it operates solely to effect a monopoly.

The first direct service from the Great Lakes to Europe on regular schedule was inaugurated in 1933 by the Fjell Line, a Norwegian company, which for several years had operated tramp ships in the trade. At the time of the hearing in this case, another line, known as the Oranje Line, was expected to enter the trade with fortnightly sailings. According to testimony, it takes 3 weeks to go from Detroit to Antwerp via direct service and from 13 to 18 days by railroad to the Atlantic seaboard and the carriers' lines beyond. The carriers, the Commission declared, admitted that purpose of the contracts is to hold business to their lines and the extent to which they have succeeded is indicated by their testimony that they carry more than 80 per cent of the traffic moving in the trades involved. Volume of tonnage was not disclosed, but their sailings in these trades in 1938 totaled 1,594.

The Commission's findings stated that in addition to the tendency of these contracts to stifle other carrier competition, they are discriminatory in other respects. They place the shipper, using the direct service, at a disadvantage in competing with contract shippers when the former is compelled to patronize respondents' lines. No penalty is assessed against shippers utilizing the Gulf route to Europe.

And while contract shippers of small quantities are required to use respondents' vessels, those in position to make boat load shipments may provide their own transportation without violating their contract. None of these discriminations appear on the record to be fair or just. The chairman of the conference under which these contracts are written stated that they contributed to improvement in service by stabilizing rates. The respondents, however, produced no contract shipper to testify in support of the contracts.

The Commission's findings stated: "There is nothing of record which would lead us to believe that the routing restriction in the contracts is vital to the maintenance of stability of service and rates. On the other hand, we have no doubt that respondents, with their frequency and quality of service, are fully capable of retaining their fair share of this traffic without resort to coercive competitive tactics.

"Respondents have agreed that the Commission may take no action affecting the contracts because not all parties to them were before the Commission.

"The record will be held open for a period of 20 days from the date hereof to permit respondents to modify their contracts in such a manner as to remove the unjust discrimination found herein to exist. Failing this, we will consider entering an order disapproving the conference agreements."

St. Louis Offices for Federal Barge

Chester C. Thompson, president of the Inland Waterways Corp., is authority for the news that shortly after Jan. 1, 1940, the executive offices of the corporation will be moved from Washington to St. Louis. The transfer applies to the president, secretary-treasurer, administrative assistant and a small clerical staff.

The decision to locate in St. Louis was influenced by its central location.

The Inland Waterways Corp. is the agency responsible for the operation of the Federal Barge lines on the Mississippi and Missouri Rivers and their tributaries.

In addition to Mr. Thompson, members of the executive staff who will move to St. Louis, include Guy Bartley, secretary-treasurer, and Aubrey Mills, recently appointed administrative assistant to Mr. Thompson.

New Vessels and Barges in E. Liverpool District

With virtually every craft in the East Liverpool District of the Ohio River in operation, mostly in the coal and steel trade, several new barges and vessels will be built to increase the fleet.

The Jones & Laughlin Steel Co. soon will begin construction of a fleet of coal barges; a contract for 15 new barges is awaited from another steel firm, while a district barge line is rushing specifications on a twin-screw Diesel tow-boat of 1200 hp.

The Dravo Corp. has been awarded the contract for two welded steel auto barges for service on the Mississippi and Ohio, to have a capacity of 125 automobiles each, to be delivered to the Commercial Barge Lines, Inc., Pontiac, Mich.

The St. Louis Shipbuilding and Steel Co. has more than $1,000,000 worth of new river equipment contracts.

The Calumet Shipbuilding Co., Chicago, is building a new Diesel towboat of 1150 hp. for the Ashland (Ky.) Oil and Refining Co.

The Marietta Manufacturing Co. is building an 1800 hp. boat at its Point Pleasant yards.

Meanwhile, total tonnage on the Ohio, Allegheny, and Monongahela Rivers in September reached a new high, according to reports of U. S. engineers. The Monongahela maintained its lead with 2,076,700 tons, a gain of 127,400 tons above August; the Allegheny increased 46,500 tons to 279,000 tons; and the Ohio showed a decrease of 56,000 tons to 1,355,000 tons.—Kline.

Ship Operators Help Railroads Control Traffic

Representatives of steamship companies, meeting in the Maritime Exchange, New York City, pledged their cooperation to G. C. Randall, manager of port traffic for the Assn. of American Railroads, which recently created the Port Traffic Bureau in a move to prevent congestion at North Atlantic ports, which are enjoying increased business now that much of the confusion about the Neutrality Act has been cleared up. It was stressed that there was little likelihood of congestion because of the prompt steps taken by various agencies to control the situation.

E. J. Karr, chairman of the Maritime Exchange's traffic advisory committee and freight traffic manager of the Calmar Line, presided at the meeting which was attended by more than 100 representatives of steamship and railroad companies, including foreign freight agents of the railroads. Mr. Karr was authorized to appoint a committee of steamship and railroad men to work out details for closer cooperation between the two transportation groups.

Among the speakers were Chas. Kennick, of Cunard-White Star, Ltd.; Philip McIntyre, of the United States Lines; A. T. Noblett, of the Bank Line; Archie King, of the Isthmian Steamship Co.; F. Quatrone, of the Italian Line; John Bowers, of the International Freighting Corp.; Terrence P. Cook, of the Barber Line; John O'Connell, of Funch Edye & Co.; F. Bubov, of the Mitsui Line; J. E. Magner, of the Grace Line; C. A. Maley, of the Pacific Coast Direct Line; S. Norton, of Norton, Lilly, and J. A. Strumpf, of the American Hawaiian Line.

In addition to Mr. Randall, railroad executives who attended the meeting included A. P. Stevens, of the Assn. of American Railroads and secretary of the General Managers' Assn. of Railroads of New York, and T. J. Clarken, of the Lehigh Valley R.R. and chairman of the New York Railroad Lighterage Committee.

J. J. Pelley, president of the Assn. of American Railroads, in recently announcing the appointment of Mr. Randall as manager of port traffic, said that the move was made because a substantially increased movement of freight was possible.

Mr. Randall, whose office will be at 30 Vesey St., will be in charge of the system that has been set up for controlling the movement of railroad traffic to ports to prevent the accumulation of more freight than can be unloaded promptly.

A committee to cooperate with the manager of port traffic has also been appointed by the Atlantic Shippers Advisory Board, which includes in its region the ports of New York, Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore. To this committee the board also has added representatives of New England ports and the Hampton Roads district.

Fritz John Frank

FRITZ JOHN FRANK, president of DandW since 1937, died Dec. 8 at the Northern Westchester Hospital, Mt. Kisco, N. Y., after a short illness. He was 68 yrs. old and is survived by his widow, Anna Raynor Frank, daughter of the late J. Adriance Bush, and also by a brother and sister.

In 1906 he joined the Mining and Scientific Press as Chicago representative, continuing with that publication until 1910, when he came with The Iron Age as advertising manager in the New York territory. In this capacity he established an outstanding record for successful performance and contributed very largely to the upbuilding of this publication.

In 1911, Mr. Frank was made secretary of the David Williams Publishing Co., the predecessor of The Iron Age Publishing Co., and in 1918 was elected vice-president. In 1919, he became president and occupied this position to the time of his death.

In addition to his executive positions with DandW and The Iron Age, Mr. Frank was also executive vice-president of the Chilton Co., and held directorships in the Robbins Publishing Co., the Business Publishers International Corp., the Newton Falls Paper Co., and the Savage Arms Corp.

He was a trustee of Rollins College, and in 1935 received a Decoration of Honor from that institution for "a distinguished career in business and outstanding service to his alma mater."

Mr. Frank was a member of the Engineers Club of New York and a past president and governor of the Machinery Club of New York. In addition to his many business activities, he was an enthusiastic sportsman with an international reputation for his kennel of pointers and setters, among which were many champions.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank resided at Madison, N. J., for the past 7 yrs., and previously at their farm "Hardscrabble" at Pleasantville, Westchester County, N. Y.

George Winslow Lamb

AFTER 39 yrs. in the warehousing business which he founded in 1901, George Winslow Lamb, president during all of that period of the South End Warehouse Co., San Francisco, died at the end of November at the age of 73.

The story of George Lamb's career is one of hard work and gradual development following an initial vision of something worthwhile to be accomplished. Still a young man, Lamb met George Lemman who had an interest in a small building at 2nd and Townsend Streets where some warehousing had been done. At that time Lamb was bookkeeper with Paul Reiger who was in the extract business. Lamb wanted to launch out for himself. His knowledge of San Francisco business at the turn of the century made him believe that its shipping was due for big growth. He saw big possibilities in the field of public warehousing. Resigning his bookkeeper's job he joined Lemman and founded the South End Warehouse Co. in 1901.

In addition to activities in his own business, Lamb was one of the more active members of the California Warehousemen's Assn., serving for several years as president and later as director.

He is survived by his wife, his son Malcolm who for some time has been operating executive and secretary of the business, and his daughter, Mrs. William DuVal.

He was nationally as well as locally known and respected. His California colleagues, through the association he served so well in his more active years, made an affectionate tribute to him in the shape of a "In Memoriam" letter sent to all members.—Gidlow.

Having been associated with the moving business since a boy, Mr. Matson invented a number of labor-saving methods and devices which he used in his business. He is survived by his wife, a daughter, a brother and four sisters.—W. T. N. B.

Besides his wife he is survived by 3 sons, George W., Everett M. and Donald R., all of them active in the transfer business established by the father. A sister, and 2 grandchildren also survive him.

Harlow H. Chamberlain

HARLOW H. CHAMBERLAIN, 76, president of the Boyd Transfer & Storage Co., Minneapolis, Minn., died Nov. 26. He had been a resident of Minneapolis 65 yrs.

Born in Chippewa Falls, Wis., in 1863, he became a resident of Minneapolis in 1874. From 1878 until 1905 he was associated with the Minneapolis Journal. In 1892 he took part in the organization of the Boyd Transfer & Storage Co. and served as president until his death.

Mr. Chamberlain is survived by a brother, L. M. Chamberlain; three nieces and two nephews.

J., as a result of injuries received Dec. 30 at the Hoboken terminal of the D.L.&W. railroad when his train collided with a safety bumper as a result of brake failure.

Mr. Stouffer suffered from a severe burn and shock, as well as other injuries resulting from the piling up of passengers when the impact occurred.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Slide Rule for T.M.'s Proving Popular

IN checking over the numerous requests received for the Traffic Manager's Slide Rule, we note that a very large number of them specifically state that DandW was their source of information.

We thought this information might be interesting to you and wish to extend our sincere thanks for your help in publicizing this invention of mine.—M. T. Brockman, Plaza Express Co., Inc., Chicago.

Editor's Note. The slide rule mentioned by Mr. Brockman was described in the November, 1939 issue, page 18. Mr. Brockman has been engaged to demonstrate the use of the rule at the College of Advanced Traffic, Chicago. The rule is available at no charge to graduates of that school.

Cal. Rail Cost Formula

WE are very much interested in a brief mention in the November issue of DandW with reference to the California rail cost formula, including examples of rail costs taken from the Southern Pacific exhibit.

The article further stated that truck operators in general had established costs some time ago in a similar study.

We would appreciate it very much if you could give us more details on the railway cost of transportation along the lines set forth in DandW, as well as the complete statement of the truck operators, and, if possible, formulas of the steamship or barge lines. Perhaps if you do not have complete information on these subjects, you can contact the proper parties and secure it for us, for which we will be most appreciative.—M. F. McManus, Manager, Indian River Refrigeration Terminal Co., Fort Pierce, Fla.

Editor's Note. DandW's correspondent in San Francisco states that R. B. Thompson, manager, Truck Owners' Assn. of California, 444 Market St., San Francisco, and W. K. Brown, California Railroad Commission, State Bldg., Civic Centre, San Francisco, are the best sources for this information.

Van Scales Needing No Pits. Where to Secure

IS there a van weighing scale on the market that can be placed on the surface without constructing a pit? If so, will you please give us the name of the manufacturer.

In our state, we see the highway department putting down two or four units, one for each wheel of the truck and weighing them as they pass. These scales are moved to different parts of the state from time to time. These would not be suitable for our purpose. We think, however, that there might be some scale that would meet our requirements.—D. Bailey Brandt, Pres., Harrisburg Storage Co., Harrisburg, Pa.

Editor's Note:—Information received on above inquiry indicates that scales requiring pits are only available. It is stated that several firms have discontinued the manufacture of the portable unit because of its inaccuracy.

If, however, any of DandW's readers know of any satisfactory units that are available, the editor would be pleased to have such information.

Highly Educational

A SHORT time ago I started reading DandW and I feel safe in saying that the articles found between the covers of each issue are not only exceedingly interesting, but highly educational.

In my opinion, the most interesting and equally important articles appearing in DandW are those relative to the professionalization of traffic management.

It is indeed with great pleasure, that I take this opportunity to offer you my sincere compliments for the cooperation you are extending to Mr. Keeling in his endeavor to bring traffic management into the ranks of a recognized profession.

I am employed as a traffic clerk and for the past 2 yrs. have been studying traffic at the Traffic Managers' Institute of New York. My one ambition is to some day rightfully earn the title of, "Traffic Manager."

If there is anything that I can do that would be of assistance to you, please feel free to call on me.—John A. Clundt, Glendale, N. Y.

Thank You, Mr. Williams

YOU are doing mighty fine work and if you send my name to Mr. Keeling, I will endeavor to do what I can in Fort Wayne. I wonder whether Mr. Keeling knows of the radio program of "Small Business Men's Association." If he could get in one of those programs, it might do the profession some good. Thanking you again for the way you have tackled a tough job, I remain.—H. O. Williams, T. M., Hoff-brau Brewing Corp., Fort Wayne, Ind.

W. E. Eddy and Miss Dorothy Chambers, western representative and secretary of the Chicago office, respectively, of the American Chain of Warehouses, Inc., found time spent at the recent Associated Traffic Clubs convention in Chicago very valuable. Some 2,000 pieces of member warehouse literature were given out to traffic managers and others. A number of the American Chain members were rewarded with new business as a result.

FROM The Capital

South Wins on Lower Rates to North

The decision of the I.C.C. on Nov. 30 ordering carriers, effective March 1, 1940, to revise northbound interterritorial rates downward on a dozen manufactured and processed commodities shipped from the South leaves the door open for revision of the nation's entire interterritorial rate structure. Thus, the long-standing complaint of Southern states against "discriminatory" railroad freight rates is upheld in the Commission stipulation that the new basis of rates be comparable to those now effective on goods shipped from northern points, mileage being considered. The vote by the Commission was 5 to 4.

Rates on the listed commodities were unlawful, the Commission held, because they were higher, distance considered, than rates on the same articles within the North. They were ordered reduced to substantially the same level that now prevails between Northern points.

The Southern governors, in their complaint, filed on May 26, 1937, asserted that Southern rates were 105 to 160 per cent of the Northern rates, with most of the Southern tariffs 138 per cent of the Northern rates.

The complaints took the position that the present interterritorial rate structure prevented that freedom of movement of articles produced in the South which was contemplated by the Interstate Commerce Act. The vast natural resources of the South were pointed out as evidence, in itself, of a need and demand for rates which will permit products manufactured there freely to move to the consuming centers in the North.

The majority opinion stated, "It is a fair conclusion from the record, as a whole, and we accordingly find that the cost of transporting the articles named in the complaint from producing points in the South into the North, compared with that of transporting like articles within the North, does not justify the maintenance thereon of higher levels of rates than are applicable on like articles within the North.

"The evidence is persuasive that stoves, stone, cast iron pipe fittings, iron body valves, fire hydrants, brass pipe fittings, brass cocks and valves and soapstone and talc are not moving freely from the South to the North over all-rail routes and will not move freely at rates higher, distance considered, than those applicable within the North."

The fact that Southern producers have been able to compete in Northern markets, in spite of the rate differentials, by cutting their profits or by using other means of transportation, was not proof that the rates were not unduly preferential and prejudicial, according to the majority opinion.

Chairman Joseph B. Eastman wrote a dissenting opinion, while Commissioner Claude R. Porter joined in this expression. Commissioners Carroll Miller and Charles D. Mahaffie joined in the dissent.

Chairman Eastman in his dissenting opinion, wrote: "The record before us does not, in my opinion, justify the basic conclusions and findings of the majority. Resolving all doubts, in favor of the complainants, I could not, on this record approve interterritorial rates more favorable to complainants than would be produced if they were adjusted in harmony with the excess in divisions granted to the Southern carriers, as a normal basis, in the recent divisions case. There is, however, one way in which the result desired by complainants might, as I see it, be properly attained, and which merits consideration.

"Where a railroad reaches a common market in competition with other railroads serving other producing sections, we have always allowed that railroad, provided it does not go below minimum reasonable limits, to make rates to that common market on a competitive basis. The record here shows that the Illinois Central, which serves the South, but reaches with its own rails Chicago, and other points in the North, normally does that very thing.

"So far as the other Southern railroads are concerned, the difficulty is that with a few minor exceptions they do not reach points in the North with their own rails, but must depend upon Northern railroad connections. These Northern railroads are now usually unwilling to join their Southern connections in competitive rates on the Northern level; but one good reason for such unwillingness has been wholly disregarded by the complaining Southern producers. It is the fact that the Southern lines have insisted on divisions which would give them the lion's share of the joint revenue.

"In the past, before we had adequate power over divisions, the Northern lines in many instances established what they called 'specifics' from the points of connection with the Southern lines, and then the latter were allowed a comparatively free hand in fixing the amount of the through rates, provided the Northern lines received their 'specifics' as divisions. It seems to me that the principle of this arrangement is sound, provided the 'specifics,' or their equivalent, are supervised by the Commission."

I.C.C. Orders Rates of Contract Carriers Exposed

The I.C.C. has found that contracts of contract carriers, filed pursuant to an order entered with an original report 2 MCC-55 as amended, should be opened to public inspection. The order becomes effective April 1, 1940, and amends a previous order in Ex Parte No. MC-9, which had instructed the carriers merely to file copies of their contracts.

The Commission also stipulated that contract carriers which are respondents in Ex Parte No. MC-27 must supply information pertinent to the case on forms prepared by the Commission. MC-27 involves an I.C.C. investigation of contract carrier rates in Central Territory and the forms, containing 12 questions, must be filed in duplicate on or before Jan. 15, 1940.

"It is inescapable from a reading of the Act as a whole," states the Commission report, "that the prime purpose of regulating contract carriers, as said by Division 5 in contract of contract carriers 1 MCC-628, is to promote and protect adequate and efficient common carrier service.

"Consistently with this purpose, contract carriers are not required to file, publish and apply indiscriminately, specific or exact rates. Likewise, our authority in the matter of their charges is limited to the prescription of minimum charges only, which are to be on such a level as to 'give no advantage or preference to any such carrier in competition with any common carrier by motor vehicle' which we 'may find to be undue or inconsistent with the public interest and the policy declared'."

In deciding originally to hold the contracts filed confidential, the report says, the Commission gave weight principally to the plea from many sources that a filing open to the public would result in a disclosure of business secrets and other information detrimental to both shippers and carriers contrary to the public interest and the spirit, if not actually, the letter of section 222 (e) of the Act.

The I.C.C. report also stated that the common carriers in the proceedings replied that, by law, there is nothing secretive about their business; that they are suffering from a loss of traffic to alleged contract carriers whose charges they cannot ascertain; that actual charges of these carriers should be made public so that they may know what competition they have to meet.

The report also stated that "In this connection the rail carriers point out that in the disposition of fourth-class applications, wherein permission is sought to meet motor carrier competition, we have consistently demanded of them a showing of the motor carrier charges which they are called upon to meet, which showing they cannot now meet."

A basic principle of carrier regulation is that full publicity of a carrier's charges is necessary and desirable in the public interest, continued the report. "There can be no effective regulation of common carriers until their charges are made public. Otherwise, it would be impossible to prevent rebating, discrimination and preference among shippers who patronize them.

"Although there is no prohibition in the Act against discrimination or preference by a contract carrier among his patrons, yet concealment of his actual charges not only discriminates against common carriers who are thus compelled to compete with published rates against contract carriers with concealed rates, but by this very fact, promotes rate wars, undercutting and other unfair and destructive competitive practices among common carriers as well as between common and contract carriers."

Of the 11 Commissioners, 5, including Chairman Eastman, dissented in whole or in part. The others were Commissioners Lee, Porter, Caskie and Alldredge.

The respondents were asked to attach to the questionnaire the form of contracts used and copies of all rate schedules on file with the Commission, and to give full information covering miles operated, loaded or empty, between July 1 and Oct. 1, number of truckload and L.T.L. traffic, and the revenue from each type.

Carriers engaged exclusively in package deliveries or other strictly local services entirely within commercial areas and which do not participate in the through movement of property to or from points outside the area were exempted from filing returns to questions 4 to 12, inclusive, but must answer the first three questions on the I.C.C.'s form.

The information requested in questions 1 to 3 serve to identify such carriers, fix their numbers, the scope of their operations, and serve as a basis for such specific exemptions from any subsequent minimum rate order as appear warranted.

Contract carriers affected by MC-27 are those transporting goods between points in Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio and Wisconsin, and points in Iowa, Kentucky, Missouri, New York, Pennsylvania, and West Virginia, which are shown in Agent H. M. Slater's Tariff MF-I.C.C. No. 1. Other contract carriers are not required to file returns to the questionnaire.

All Trucker Employes Under I.C.C. Hour Control

A three-Judge Federal Court ruled on Dec. 4 that the I.C.C. had authority to regulate the hours of all employes of common and contract motor carriers. The 2-to-1 decision, which removed an estimated 150,000 to 200,000 workers from the jurisdiction of the maximum-hours of provision of the Wage-Hour Act, was rendered in a suit brought by the American Trucking Associations, Inc., and four motor carrier companies to force the I.C.C. to assume such jurisdiction.

The I.C.C. had taken the position that the Motor Carrier Act of 1935 empowered it to regulate the hours of only those motor carrier employes whose work involved a "safety factor," such as truck drivers. The Court held in a majority opinion, however, that the I.C.C. had authority to prescribe "reasonable requirements regarding qualifications and maximum hours of service" of all employes of those highway carriers coming under the 1935 law.

The majority opinion was signed by Chief Justice D. Lawrence Groner of the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia and Justice Jennings Bailey of the Federal District Court at Washington. An associate of Mr. Bailey, F. Dickinson Letts, dissented. The three judges heard the case as a special constitutional court.

Following the decisions, A.T.A. officials stated they feared the Court's action, while favorable, would not end the case.

"The I.C.C. never stops with the lower courts," one official stated, "and we feel certain the case will go to the Supreme Court where, with the present membership, we feel hopeful of winning out finally."

The A.T.A. had held that the wage-hour act exempted rail, water and air line employes and should in like manner exempt all employes of motor carrier firms. The I.C.C. position that it was empowered to regulate only the hours of drivers was backed by the wage-hour division of the Labor Department.

In its decision, the Court stated: "In the view we take, the language of the disputed section (of the Motor Carrier Act) is so plain as to permit only one interpretation, and we find nothing in the Act, as a whole, which can with any assurance be said to lead to a different result.

"We therefore, think the Commission was in error in denying jurisdiction, and that an order should be made requiring it to consider plaintiff's petition, in accordance with the views expressed in this opinion."

The I.C.C. had held the requested jurisdiction would be wholly for regulation of its normal activities, to which the Court replied: "Even if this be granted . . . there is no doubt that Congress had the power to impose the challenged duty. And the answer to the query cannot be found in the fact of inconvenience to the Commission, but must first be looked for in the language of the statute. If the words are clear, there is no room for construction."

The Court declared that Congress had included in the Motor Carrier Act a definite policy declaration on motor carrier regulation and "demonstrated beyond question" that it had "preempted the entire field."

The Court also pointed out that "If Congress had intended to distinguish between those engaged in actual operation of motor vehicles and those engaged in other work, it could have done so . . . by the addition of less than a half-dozen words.

"Hence, to read that limitation into the section would be not only to disregard the letter of the law, but to find, without guide or compass in the Act, a legislative intent to that end . . . Such guide as there is outside the definite meaning of the words—supports the view that Congress used the language of the section advisedly and meant exactly what it said."

FROM THE LEGAL VIEWPOINT

Liability of Independent Contractor

LEGAL EDITOR, DandW: In the past I have read several of your opinions with reference to the liability of a motor truck owner who hires an independent contractor, but I do not know whether or not it is necessary that an independent contractor own his trucks, in order to relieve us from all liability for injuries resulting from his negligence. Please explain this point of the law.—Super Machinery Co.

Answer: A person may be an independent contractor without owning the truck he uses to haul merchandise for you. The important consideration is: Did you, the master, have control over the truck driver when the accident occurred?

For example, you may own a motor truck and lease or rent it to the driver who may contract to haul merchandise for you at a stipulated price per mile, per ton, or otherwise, but if you have no control over him, except that he must promptly make the deliveries, be polite to your customers, and handle the goods without negligence, then he is an independent contractor and you are not liable for any injuries which he may effect while driving the truck, unloading the merchandise or while he performs other acts necessary toward the final act of delivering the goods to the customers whose names you have supplied. On the other hand, assume that you insist that the driver takes a specified route, or that you retain a right to direct him as to whom he employs to assist in loading or unloading, or that you require that he keep in touch with you for purposes of giving orders; then, under these circumstances, the driver legally is your employee and you are liable for any and all inquiries that he negligently effects.

If, for example, you make a contract with a person who owns the truck he intends to use and he agrees to haul merchandise for a named price, you have no right to direct him as to how and what methods he uses in making the deliveries. You only require that he make the deliveries promptly and in a satisfactory manner. The rule of law is that this man is an independent contractor, and in order for others to be the same, you must have no more control over them; otherwise you are the legal employer and he the employee for whose negligent acts you are responsible. If you desire to read a few higher court cases on this law, I shall be pleased to supply the citations, although I assume that you have kept records of these which have appeared in DandW in the past.

The Law on Use of Same Name

LEGAL EDITOR, DandW: For over 20 yrs. we have operated our business as "National Security and Storage Co." About 2 mos. ago, another firm opened up a small business and named it "National Storage Co." Have we any recourse in this matter? — National Security and Storage.

Answer: You may file suit and obtain an injunction to stop use of this name of the new firm, providing it does business in the same town, city or locality as your present location. The law is well settled that no person or firm may use a name likely to cause confusion in the minds of the public. Moreover, no person or firm will be permitted by the courts to adopt a name that is likely to absorb business from another person or firm having a similar name.

See following higher court cases: 61 N.Y.S. 226; and 90 S.W. (2d) 1041.

Also, see National v. National, 297 Fed. 351, in which the court held that use of the word "National" in a firm name was an exclusive appropriation of the original user in the particular territory in which he transacted business, but that another firm in the same or different locality could without any liability use this word "National" in its name without any confusion if the two firms were engaged in an entirely different business and did not appeal to the same class of trade or persons for business.

In order that you may understand this law, it is well to explain that in a late case (195 S.W. 529) a man whose last name was "Silver" established and operated a business under his name. Later another man, whose name was "Silver" established a business in a different classification, and the court held this was legal because the name was not adopted for the purpose of deceiving the public. However, see Howard 3 Sandr 725, which is a leading case and in which the court held a man named "Irvin" liable for using his name in connection with a business being operated in the same locality by another man named "Irvin," because this use, being in the same general line of business, was likely to deceive the public and cause confusion.

State Tax Situation in California

LEGAL EDITOR, DandW: Please inform us whether we must pay sales tax or tax for "doing business" if we ship goods from another state into California and distribute same from a warehouse. —Williamson Candy Co.

Answer: The state may collect sales tax if your business is intrastate. And, under circumstances, as below explained, you may be required to pay a license to store goods in the state; advertise use of same; or for privilege of using the goods, although your business is interstate. A review of two late cases will supply valuable information. In one case, Atlanta v. Freedom, 3 S.E. (2d) 595, a seller contracted to sell his goods to purchasers in Georgia. The bills for the goods were paid for by the purchasers directly to the seller whose headquarters were in another state. The seller stored goods in a warehouse in Georgia in consideration of the maximum quantities which the purchasers could order out under their contracts. As the purchasers sent in orders for goods to be shipped, the seller mailed orders to the warehouseman who made the required shipments. The warehouseman was paid for the storage and transportation by the seller.

The court held that the seller was not subject to payment of license fees to the State of Georgia, or the city, mainly because he stored goods in the warehouse for the purpose of being able to quickly and efficiently fill orders of the purchasers under the previously made contracts. For this same law see 120 S.E. 120; 247 U.S. 21; 218 U.S. 124.

On the other hand, see late case of 123 S.W. (2d) 797, in which it was shown that a seller shipped goods from another state into Texas. These goods were stored in a warehouse, but with no previous contract arrangements for positive or possible shipment to purchasers. In other words, the goods were merely stored in a warehouse awaiting orders for shipment to purchasers in Texas. The court held the seller liable for payment of taxes to "do business." This court explained that the goods when being shipped into Texas had no particular destination other than to await orders to be received from prospective purchasers and that the transactions in Texas were intrastate.

Legal Notice on Car Placing

LEGAL EDITOR, DandW: A railway company placed a car of merchandise on our siding at 2:00 P.M., Saturday, when, in fact, we close our warehouse at noon this day. Before we came to our place of business on Monday morning, the seal of the car had been broken and goods had been stolen. The railway company refuses to make good, saying that the law is they have the right to place a car there at any time and without giving us any notification. Can you cite cases for us on this point of law?—Atlantic Storage.

Answer: Three important points are involved, as follows: Did the bill of lading or contract with the railway company provide that the company could place cars without giving you notification, or at anytime desired? Was there a custom for a long period that the railway company placed cars without notifying you, and at any time it desired? Did you know or have reason to believe that the car would be placed at this time?

If the answer to either of these questions is in the affirmative, then it is legal delivery and the railway company is not liable for the loss.

See Chicago, 121 Minn. 300; Lever 22 N.W. 599; and Stoute 223 N.Y. 21, in all of which cases the court held that without special contract, or general custom, it is not delivery for a common carrier to leave a car on a siding unless it was the intentions of both the consignee and the railway company agent. Also, see Southern 142 Ala. 322, in which the court held that placing a car on a siding was not legal delivery unless the evidence shows that such was agreed, or that it had been customary, and without complaint on the part of the consignee, for the company to place cars at any time it desired to do so and without giving notification.

And in Eagle 6 Whart (Pa.) 505 it was held that it is not legal delivery for a common carrier to place a car on a siding after business hours if there was no agreement to this effect between the consignee and the carrier. Also, the United States Supreme Court, in Michigan 256 U.S. 427, held that it is important, when deciding litigations of this nature to read the bill of lading, as its provisions are binding on the parties.

Of course, the important consideration is: Was there legal delivery by the carrier to you? If so, the carrier is not liable, and if not, then the carrier must stand the loss.

This Month's Important Higher Court Decisions

Warehouseman Liable for Conversion

CONSIDERABLE discussion has arisen from time to time as to when, and under what circumstances, a warehouseman may be liable for conversion where he failed to ascertain positively that the owner of the goods received the written notification before selling the goods. The usual state statute requires that before the goods are sold, the "warehouseman shall give a written notice to the person on whose account the goods are held, and to any other person known by the warehouseman to claim an interest in the goods. Such notice shall be given by delivery in person, or by registered letter addressed to the last known place of business or abode of the person to be notified."

The present and modern legal interpretation of this usual state law is that the warehouseman is bound to send the written notification to the last known address of the owner of the goods, which he intends to sell, but if the warehouseman does so, he is not liable for conversion although the owner of the goods does not receive the notification. On the other hand, the warehousman is liable for conversion if he fails to send the notification to the last known address of the owner of the goods, irrespective of how or when he received information of said last known address.

For illustration, in Hir v. Hubert Transfer and Storage Co., 8 Atl. (2d) 426, Pennsylvania, the testimony proved that the owner of the goods was a man named Hir, and he delivered the same to a warehouseman for storage in 1931 and received from the warehouseman a regular warehouse receipt. At this time Hir lived at 1131 Dormont Ave., Dormont, Pa. However, in May, 1935, he moved to 733 Maryland Ave., Pittsburgh, Pa. The warehouseman had knowledge that Hir had moved to the new address, although no evidence was given as to how he came into this information.

On July 6, 1935, Hir was delinquent on payment of the storage account and the warehouseman decided to sell the goods to recover the amount due. The warehouseman properly advertised the intended sale of the goods. Also, the warehouseman sent Hir a registered letter notifying him that his goods would be sold on the warehouseman's lien for storage charges. However, this notice was addressed to Hir's former home in Dormont, though 733 Maryland Ave., Pittsburgh, was the last address of Hir known to the warehouseman. This notice by registered mail was never received by Hir but was returned unclaimed to the warehouseman by the postal authorities. On Aug. 20, 1935, a date between the date of the registered notice and the date of the sale, Hir wrote the warehouseman and the latter replied in a letter directed to Hir at his Maryland Ave. address. This letter, however, contained no notice of intention to sell the goods on Sept. 5, 1935, on which date the goods were sold by the warehouseman without notice to Hir and without his actual knowledge.

Hir sued the warehouseman to recover full value of the goods on the contention that the warehouseman was liable for conversion because he failed to send a letter to the Maryland Ave., Pittsburgh, address giving notification of the intended sale.

It is interesting to know that the lower court held the warehouseman liable and the higher court upheld this verdict. The court said:

> "Defendant (warehouseman) failed to comply with the procedure prescribed by the state statute in that the notice by registered mail was not addressed to the 'last known place of business or abode' of the plaintiff (Hir) and the sale of plaintiff's goods without his actual knowledge was an unlawful conversion and gave him a right of action for his damages."

Also, it is important to know that various higher courts have held that if a warehouseman sends a registered letter to the last known address of the owner of the goods, notifying him of intended sale of stored goods to recover delinquent storage charges, the warehouseman is not liable for conversion, although the owner of the goods does not receive the notification.

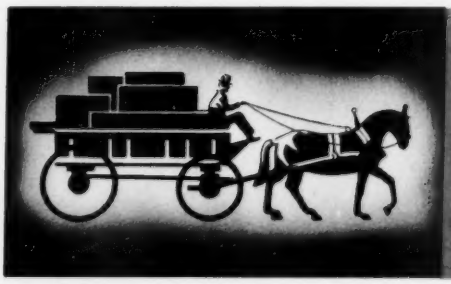
Landmarks in the Sands of Time

FRUEHAUF TRAILER COMPANY, DETROIT, MICHIGAN

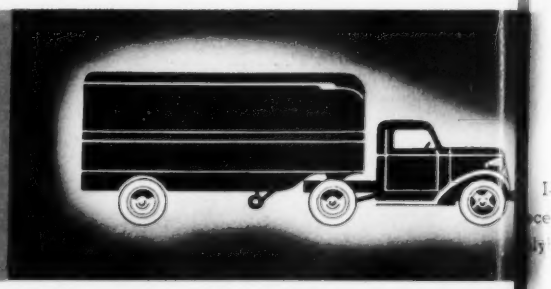
The story of . .

1. Birthplace of The "Trailer Idea. In this small blacksmith and wagon shop the founders of the Fruehauf Trailer Company first practiced their creed of "Quality at any cost."

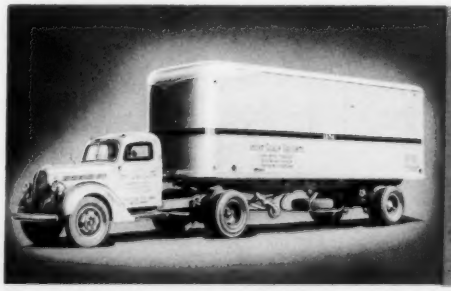
2. This original Fruehauf, gawky and hard-riding though it was, did a job for its owners—demonstrated conclusively the fundamental soundness of the "Trailer Idea."



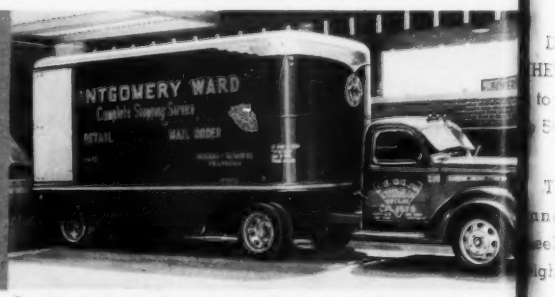
3. The "Trailer Idea" is not new. The horse, the train, the tug boat—all these have demonstrated the basic advantage of using power as a pulling force.



4. The application of this principle to the motor truck—that you can pull more than you can carry—produced the Fruehauf Trailer, tremendously widened the horizons of truck transportation.



5. Up through the years, the Trailer has enabled light trucks to haul big loads with ease and efficiency. Operators have been quick to capitalize on the savings in first cost and depreciation expense thus produced.



6. The light truck-trailer combination is cheaper to operate. The truck is less greedy of gas, less costly in the garage than the bigger unit it replaces. The Trailer, with a useful life of upwards of 10 years, costs practically nothing to maintain.

7. The use of Trailers spread by the sheer weight of their unusual ability to serve—such as where loads are bulky but light. Here the Trailer affords a complete range of body sizes, without regard to the size of the power unit.

8. "Hinged-in-the-middle," the truck-trailer can be turned shorter, maneuvered faster, parked more easily. A one-and-one-half-ton truck pulling a Semi-Trailer turns in a circle 13 feet smaller than that required by a truck of equal capacity.

25 years of Engineered Transportation

9. The ultimate in economical transportation comes with the use of Trailers in "shuttle" operation. Here one truck handles several Semi-Trailers—being en route with one Trailer while a second is being unloaded, and in many cases with still a third being loaded.

10. This roll call of Trailer advantages—advantages which have meant 25 years of continuous growth in Trailer usage—would be incomplete without mentioning advertising value. The broad, smooth sides of the Trailer act as traveling billboards.

SOMETIMES, when a company reaches its Silver Anniversary, its executives are inclined to sit back with pleased expressions and say, "Look what's happened to us in 25 years! Look how we've grown!"

But we're going to try hard not to do this. First, because we really don't feel that we're entitled to any too much credit for whatever progress we've been able to make so far. When all's said and done, if it hadn't been for our customers—those who, in the early days, had faith enough in us to stick with us even though things sometimes failed to work out just as we had planned, and all the others whose patronage opened the way for new developments—if it hadn't been for these thousands of loyal Fruehauf users, how could we have grown?

And, in the second place, we feel that the important thing is not what we've done the past 25 years, but what we're going to do in the 25 years ahead! We fully realize that we shall continue to grow only as we serve. For, to serve is in itself to grow.

Frozen Foods Require Efficient

REFRIGERATED TRUCKING SERVICE . . .

By John J. Antun
Asst. Vice-President, Merchants Refrigerating Co., New York City.

THAT better coordination of existing motor trucking facilities in the hauling of quick-frozen foods is needed as well as more knowledge as to the specific requirements in regard to temperature control and schedule maintenance were brought out at a meeting of some 70 representative companies engaged in selling, distributing, packing, warehousing and transporting this product.

This meeting, held at the Lincoln Hotel, New York City, was one of a number called by me in the past for the purpose of openly discussing problems that exist in the perishable food field.

Containers for shipping less-carloads of frozen food were also discussed as was low-temperature control on railroad cars.

Horace Ford, of the Atlantic Quick Freeze Co., told of the many orders his company was unable to fill due to the lack of transportation facilities from Boston to other large cities. Mr. Ford explained that while a low-temperature service was maintained part of the way, the merchandise would be transferred to another truck not having low temperatures, for the balance of the trip. In several instances, the merchandise was almost completely thawed when it arrived at its destination. Several other packers and distributors explained that less-than-truck-load shipments of frozen food are almost impossible in long distance hauls.

M. Ries of Ries-Munoz, Inc., formerly vice-president of the Honor Brand Frosted Foods Corp., told of some of his experiences in shipping truckloads of frozen foods out of New York City to various cities within a 400-mile area.

Major Elihu Church discussed the benefits of shipping less than carloads of frozen food in a Church container, which is now part of the regular equipment of the Railway Express Agency.

Legal Limits

C. J. Morgan, Jr., head of the operating department of the American Trucking Association, Inc., after hearing the many problems confronting the distributors of frozen foods, advised that he would take this matter up with his association and suggested that the group form a committee of several refrigerated truck owners together with several distributors to make a complete survey of their requirements. He also advised that often the difficulty in shipping frozen food from one state to another state is due to the Interstate Commerce Commission regulations, under which all trucks are now operating. A truck carrying low temperatures will handle merchandise as far as its operating permit allows and then another truck, not having proper refrigerating facilities, will pick up the load. Mr. Morgan also invited several representatives of refrigerated trucking companies, who were present, to relate their experiences in the handling of frozen foods to various sections of the country.

Rail Facilities

The railroad companies also sent several representatives to attend the meeting. L. J. Lippman of the Cold Control Co. spoke of the success they are having in maintaining low temperatures on railroad cars throughout the country. This Cold Control car installs a broquinda. The broquinda system consists essentially of a dry ice compartment or bunker, surrounded by a jacket. Bunker and jacket are heat-insulated from the space to be cooled in the car and from this jacket, cooling coils extend into the upper part of the space to be cooled. The temperature within the cooling coil and therefore in the refrigerated space is controlled at will by a thermostatic valve which regulates the flow of the secondary refrigerant. The broquinda system is entirely mechanical and foolproof. The broquinda and coils are of rugged construction and have withstood actual road operations and severe bump tests.

With reference to the transportation of frozen food by truck, I would like to add that packers and distributors of quick-frozen fruits and vegetables hesitate to ship frozen merchandise in so-called refrigerated trucks because they fear the merchandise will arrive at its destination partly or completely thawed. In many cases where merchandise is transferred from one warehouse to a warehouse in another city, the receiving warehouse, believing the merchandise to be in frozen condition, will store it in a regular freezer room, not aware that while in transit it thawed partly or completely. The warehouseman, unless given specific instructions, will not examine the merchandise on arrival and as a result, the final consumer will open a nicely packed product, doubly wrapped in parchment or cellophane, and find that the contents will have a foreign odor and show signs of dehydration and toughness. The entire industry suffers when such conditions exist. The retail distributors cannot tell from the outside of the package the extent of damage to the contents and another frozen food customer is lost.

Advertising

There are, however, some responsible trucking companies who will guarantee temperatures and live up to their guarantee. At the meeting, I suggested that an honor list or a preferred list of these refrigerated trucking companies be published so that the traffic managers of the various companies can be guaranteed proper temperatures in the shipment of quick frozen merchandise. It was also suggested at the meeting that on the outside of the truck, a sign be painted, reading "We carry quick frozen foods." This would act as a guarantee and as an advertising medium for the quick frozen foods industry.

We believe that most of the truckmen advertising refrigerated service do not realize that frozen foods require temperatures around zero degrees or not above 10 deg. above zero. As a help to establish an efficient refrigerated trucking service, so important to the frozen food industry at this time, we offer the following suggestions:—

1—Have a well insulated truck body, insulated with glass wool, cork, dried zero, tinfoil, kapok or some other proved insulation.

2—The body equipped with florax and well stripped to allow proper circulation.

3—Space allowed for dry ice chambers with at least 1 blower fan. Some trucks have a blower fan in the front and rear of the truck. The blower must be well stripped and fit tight to prevent loss of refrigeration.

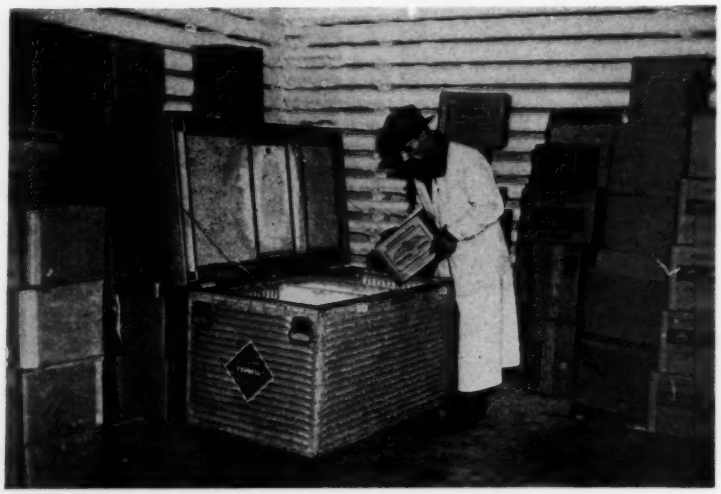
4—A sufficient amount of dry ice (this may be determined by consulting your dealer), placed in various parts of the body.

5—The truck should be cooled for several hours before loading. If the truck is standing idle over night, care should be taken to keep sufficient quantities of dry ice in the truck and the fans going.

6—A small air space should be left in the center of the pile which should not be piled higher than 12 in. from the roof of the truck. If a small load is to be carried, the pile should be placed in the front of the truck where the dry ice chamber and blower is located and covered with an insulating blanket to prevent loss of cold air. The use of a Church or Zimmerman container is also a guarantee against defrosting.

7—A refrigerated trucking company should also arrange its schedules so that trucks arrive during warehouse business hours and not on a Saturday, Sunday or holiday, so that the merchandise can move into a refrigerated warehouse or refrigerated holding room of the customer. When unloading trucks, the merchandise should move immediately into a low temperature room and not be allowed to stand exposed to the outside air for more than a few minutes at a time.

The trucking companies now handling frozen food with proper refrigeration are to be commended for the foresight they possess and are rapidly gaining the confidence of the packers and distributors.



The Church portable container, adopted by the Railway Express Agency, has about 10 cu. ft. capacity and carries up to 400 lbs.

Lower Rail L.C.L. Rates

Reduced rates on L.C.L. traffic between key cities in Official Territory are planned by the Pennsylvania, the B. & O. and other lines in a new tariff, to be filed by Agent W. S. Curlett. The tariff would become effective about Feb. 1, 1940, and would meet carloading company competition, as well as that of motor trucks, by rates that are considerably lower than in these fields.

Motor TRANSPORTATION

Rails Want Highways for Themselves

THE charge that railroads of the country are back of moves to tax or legislate independent truckers off the highways, "so that the railroads can have highway transportation exclusively for themselves," was coupled with a demand for action to "lighten the load of taxation" on motor transport, in an address by Chester G. Moore, board chairman of Central Motor Freight Assn., Chicago, before the Milwaukee Traffic Club, Dec. 4.

"Speaking frankly and calling a spade a spade, we in the highway transportation field deeply resent the continued attacks being made upon us by the railroads, and their unfair tactics in seeking to discredit us with the public we serve," said Mr. Moore, who also is secretary of the American Trucking Associations, Inc. "Certainly everyone must know that the railroads are in the trucking business —and in to stay. It is common knowledge that they are today operating more trucks than locomotives. To be exact, the figures for 1937 were 53,162 motor vehicles, as against 47,555 locomotives — and the number of trucks is increasing steadily."

Urging "co-operation for our mutual interests," the speaker stated that the common carrier trucking lines "are ready and willing to establish joint rail-truck rates any day in the week—whenever the railroads will agree." He pointed out that the American Trucking Association has gone on record to this effect. "But we are still waiting," he added, "while those with whom we would 'play ball' refuse even to come out on the lot. In fact, they officially resolved not to play ball.

"The result is well known to you all—a complaint filed by the Department of Justice in Washington just recently, charging the Association of American Railroads and 236 member roads with violation of the Sherman Anti-trust Act. Action of this sort would never have been taken had the railroads shown any inclination to cooperate with the motor transport industry in this matter. We all know that joint rail-truck rates would work to the mutual benefit of both parties and the country as a whole."

CONSOLIDATED FREIGHTWAYS

There is a general impression "carefully nurtured and promoted by our railroad friends," said Mr. Moore, "that the motor transport industry is paying only special highway taxes, which in turn are spent only in constructing and maintaining our roads. "The 'joker' in this propaganda," he added, "is the implication that truck operators are not contributing anything in taxes toward maintenance of our schools and other public institutions. Nothing could be furthere from the truth.

"A survey, based on extensive truck operations over a wide area in this country, reveals that the trucking industry last year paid $355,000,000 in general taxes—none of which was spent on roads, but all for the general public welfare. Added to the $416,000,000 in special truck taxes paid in 1938, it was disclosed that the trucking industry actually paid a total tax bill of $771,000,000 last year. The general taxes paid by the trucking industry alone last year exceeded the total tax bill of the Class 1 railroads. Let's hear no more about the millions of school children who are supposed to depend entirely upon the railroads for their education."

The speaker cited a list of 27 different taxes, ranging from city to Federal levies, paid by an established trucking company serving more than 1,000 cities and towns in five states, to illustrate the heavy tax burden being borne by motor transport today. He stated that, out of every dollar taken in by this same company last year, 48.23 cents was paid out in wages, 39.88 cents in operating expenses and 9.31 cents in taxes—leaving only 2.58 cents out of each revenue dollar as profit. To show that this is general through the trucking industry, Mr. Moore quoted figures from the Bureau of Motor Carriers of the Interstate Commerce Commission on revenues and expenses of Class 1 motor carriers of property for the calendar year 1938. These figures disclosed an average net profit of 2.74 cents out of each revenue dollar for the 962 for-hire trucking companies covered in the report.

"Valuation of the motor trucks serving the public in 1937 was placed at more than $877,000,000," added Mr. Moore. "The total trucking investment is much larger, of course. True, it is still relatively small, compared with the railroads and the valuation of more than 23 billion dollars placed on their properties. Strange as it may seem, however, this new motor transport industry is serving more than 48,000 communities in our country that are wholly dependent upon it for their daily needs. Certainly an industry of such size and vital necessity to the well-being of our citizens has earned the right to continued existence. I am sure that the people themselves realize the real value of this new industry and will quickly reject any efforts to swallow it whole."

The speaker cited figures released by the National Highway Users Conference showing that the tax rate on motor trucks in 1937 was equal to 47.6 per cent of their total valuation, while industry in general paid only 6 per cent, and Class 1 railroads 1.43 per cent on total valuation. "Certainly the most biased person will agree that a tax rate which equals almost half the total valuation of anything—be it a truck or a home—is rapidly approaching the confiscatory stage," he added. "There is a limit of taxation beyond which no established business enterprise can survive. When other lines of industry—including the railroads—reach this point in sharing the burdens of government, then—and only then—will it be fair or just to consider heaping additional taxes on the trucking industry.

"Trucks have won on service—and the public has benefitted thereby. We will not cease in our demand for a 'square deal'—not just for ourselves, but for the public also. We want them to enjoy the benefits of the best possible transportation at the lowest possible cost. When our worth to the community is measured on that basis, we know that motor transport will not be found wanting."

Cal.'s New Truck Laws Now in Effect

Amendments to the California Vehicle Code, which were passed at the last session of the State Legislature and made effective Jan. 1, 1940, affect truck operators in numerous ways and include changes in regulations for clearance lamps; axle weight limits, width, length and height of trucks and trailers, weight and extension limits of loads, and other matters.

Senate Bill No. 689 amends Chapter 788 of the Vehicle Code, as follows:

On and after Jan. 1 the color of clearance lamp lights on new vehicles sold or operated in the state is limited to amber.

The act provides that no commercial vehicle other than a passenger common carrier may be equipped with an illuminated identification sign on the front more than 24 in. long and 8 in. wide, or one which is lighted by other than a diffused white light, free of glare.

Under the new law the width of any vehicle or its load may not exceed 96 in., except as outlined in qualifying sections.

When any vehicle is equipped with pneumatic tires the maximum width from the outside of one wheel and tire to the outside of the opposite outer wheel and tire may not exceed 100 in., and the outside width of the body of the truck or other vehicle, or its load, must be restricted to 96 in.

Regarding carriers of loads of loosely piled material in bulk, uncrated, sacked, boxed or baled, the amendment provides that any such material or loading racks for holding it in place may not exceed 120 in. in width.

In the case of vehicles which were registered in California prior to August 31, 1923, the law now provides that the outside width of the vehicle or load may not exceed 102 in., but that from and after Dec. 31, 1942, any such carrier will be subject to the general regulation limiting widths to 96 in.

Any incorporated city is vested with authority by the State law to permit, by ordinance, a total outside width of a vehicle and load in excess of the limits stipulated by the new State amendments, providing such vehicles are used exclusively within the boundaries of such cities.

New provisions for truck height and length are:

No vehicle unladen or with load may exceed a height of 13 ft., 6 in., or a length of 35 ft.; and no combination of vehicles coupled together may be longer than 60 ft.

The load on a truck, under the provisions of the amended code, may not extend more than 3 ft. beyond the front wheels or the front bumper; rearward, the load of a truck or trailer may not extend beyond the last point of support for a greater distance than that equal to two-thirds of the length of the wheelbase.

The length of the load on any combination of vehicles, except loads of poles or pipes, is limited, by the new law, to 75 ft., measured from the front extremity of the front vehicle to the rear extremity of the one following.

Regarding axle weight limits, the new amendments provide that the gross weight imposed upon the highway by the wheels of any one axle may not exceed 17,000 lbs. and the gross weight of any one wheel may not exceed 10,000 lbs., with the following exceptions: In vehicles first registered prior to Jan. 1, 1930, the gross weight imposed upon the highway by the wheels on any one axle must not exceed 18,000 lbs., and of individual wheels, 11,000 lbs. The exception clause will terminate Dec. 31, 1942.

The use of truck booster power units is made permissible as an aid in propelling or moving a motor truck or truck and trailer combination up hill, providing the required permit for such operation is obtained and the truck booster power unit is operated only on highways and at such times and according to conditions and requirements specified in the permit.

Any new motor vehicle first registered in the state after Jan. 1, 1940, may not exceed a gross weight of 14,000 lbs., unless it is equipped with power brakes.

As to trailers, the new law provides that any new trailer or semi-trailer, first registered in the state after Jan. 1, 1940, and drawn by a truck at more than 20 m.p.h., and having a gross weight of 6,000 lbs. or more, must be equipped with brakes sufficient to stop the vehicle within the legal stopping distance.

The gross weight of any truck and load may not exceed 26,000 lbs. when the truck is equipped with two axles which are not in the same vertical transverse plane and with four or more wheels running on the highway, with the exception that the gross weight of a one-axle semi-trailer and a one-axle dolly may equal the 26,000-lb. weight allowed for two-axle carriers.

With respect to three-axle trucks, the gross weight of such vehicles may not exceed 34,000 lbs., under the revised law, when such trucks are equipped with three or more axles, no two of which are in the same vertical transverse plane, and with six or more wheels contacting the highway.

The amendment limits the gross weight of a combination of a semi-trailer and a dolly equipped with three or more axles to 34,000 lbs.

With reference to every truck or other vehicle equipped with three axles, the amended code provides that no two axles may be less than 40 in. apart.—Herr.

Iowa Tax Rules Issued

The Iowa Commerce Commission has sent truckers copies of its regulations under the compensation tax clause of the new truck tax and regulation law, effective Jan. 1, 1940. The new law, passed by the last legislature, repeals the former ton-mile tax on certified carriers operating between fixed terminals, and rewrites Iowa's truck tax laws. About 250 operators of truck and bus routes on regular schedules are affected.

The compensation tax must be paid on each motor vehicle, combination of motor truck and trailer, and combination of tractor and semi-trailer. The tax must be based on the number of tractors. Thus, if an operator has 10 tractors and 15 semi-trailers he will pay the compensation tax on 10 units, the tax being based on the combined gross weight of the tractor and semi-trailer unit.

Operators will be allowed to increase their gross weight at any time by notifying the Commission of such action and paying the additional fee for the rest of the year. The tax is payable either in semi-annual or quarterly installments.

Operators coming under the law will be required to carry two special identification plates on each piece of equipment. Receipts are to be allocated on a basis of 50 per cent to county secondary roads, and 50 per cent to primary highways.

Reciprocity Between Ore. and Cal.

A reciprocity arrangement in regard to the operation of cars and trucks has been agreed upon between the motor vehicle departments of California and Oregon. The agreement provides that foreign corporations of one state with branch offices in the other state do not have to have their trucks licensed in both states if the trucks carry on an interstate business exclusively. Another phase of the agreement makes it possible for a resident of one state to accept employment in another state without licensing his automobile in both states.—Herr.

A.T.A. Convention in 1940 at Los Angeles

The next annual convention of the American Trucking Associations, Inc., will be held in the Fall of 1940 at Los Angeles, Cal.

Aero Mayflower Certificate to Serve All Points

A "grandfather" certificate was granted the Aero Mayflower Transit Co. last month to serve all points in the country. The Motor Carrier Division of the I.C.C., in issuing the certificate, declared that the company was granted a certificate to serve all points in October, 1937, but that its right to operate in 11 Western states had been questioned by various protestants.

The company now has the right to operate between points in Arizona, California, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, Oregon, Utah, Washington and Wyoming, and between points in those states, on the one hand, and points in all other states and the District of Columbia, on the other, over irregular routes.

Protestants contended that proof of the company's past operations, particularly in Nevada and Oregon, was inadequate to warrant issuance of a "grandfather" certificate.

"The service of a household goods mover differs from that of a carrier who transports general or special commodities between specified points," the Division stated. "The distinction lies in the relatively irregular demand for the type of service rendered by such a carrier. In consequence, a mover of household goods may have very infrequent occasion to serve many points of origin or destination.

"It is unnecessary for a carrier conducting operations such as those here under consideration to prove actual service at every point which the evidence indicates that it held itself out to serve, for there may have been no demand for such service.

"It is entitled to authority to serve points which it had continuously held itself out to serve, provided the proof indicates that its actual operations were consistent with such holding out."

Trade Barriers Analyzed

An analysis of statutes impeding the free flow of commerce between nine Eastern and Southern States, to be used as a basis for legislative action, was to have been completed before the convening of the legislatures in January, 1940. It was inaugurated by the Marketing Laws Survey of the Work Projects Administration.

The study, under the direction of A. H. Martin, Jr., Director of the Marketing Laws Survey, presents a digest not only of the individual statutes which act as trade barriers, but also of the various administrative agency orders issued under the statutes. It is these orders and interpretations, Commissioner Colonel Harrington said, which frequently have had the effect of twisting an otherwise innocent piece of legislation into an instrument of discrimination against the products of a sister state.

The study is the first undertaking of the interdepartmental committee on trade barrier legislation recently created by the Secretary of Commerce. Mr. Martin represented the Federal Works Agency on this committee. The states covered are Massachusetts, New York, New Jersey, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Virginia, Mississippi, Kentucky, and Louisiana.

The Marketing Laws Survey already has issued its first publication relating to interstate trade barriers. This is a preliminary compilation of charts showing typical examples of restrictive legislation in the several states. Recently, a more comprehensive study examined all types of restrictive legislation in all the states and includes the court and administrative agency orders implementing the original statutes. This will form the principal basis of the work to be undertaken by the interdepartmental committee.

"There is the widest possible diversity in the laws governing trade between the states, regardless of the fact that the Constitution expressly forbids the erection of customs barriers," Mr. Martin said. "A truck operator, for example, may have to pay several hundred dollars in fees and special licenses for a single hauling job which crosses several state lines.

"Many such regulations are purely arbitrary. A dairying state, for example, may impose a prohibitive tax on oleomargarine in order to protect its butter industry. In retaliation for this, the oleomargarine-producing state will then impose similar stringencies on the butter or other exportable products of the offending state. The result is a stalemate in which both parties lose.

"It is the purpose of the Marketing Laws Survey to bring together, for the first time, a complete digest of these statutes, not only for the benefit of businessmen engaged in interstate commerce, but also for the guidance of the state and federal governments in devising corrective measures."—Manning.

More Business with Lower Truck Rates

Shippers' representatives, testifying at the hearing for a modification of the minimum rate order in ex parte MC-21 in Central Territory, held the early part of December, went on record as favoring motor carrier transportation. Several declared they would increase the haulage for the common motor carriers provided the rates were changed to warrant such action. The hearings were before Examiner David Waters of the I.C.C.

A. E. Morgan, general traffic manager of the Columbus Coated Fabrics Corp., testified that he liked the service rendered by common motor carriers and, all things being equal, would give them a sizable portion of the traffic of his organization. Mr. Morgan stated that about 51 per cent of his company's freight is carried by trucks and the rest by rail. Most of the motor carrier freight is hauled by contract carriers. The company manufactures table oil cloth, imitation leather, oil cloth and kindred products.

Lower rates on products of the American Waterproofing Co., Cincinnati, to meet competition were sought by a motor carrier in behalf of G. B. Reid, president of that organization. He testified that his company liked the service of common carriers but that they had lost haulage business because of untenable rate exactions.

Favors New Body to Police Transportation

W. J. Williamson, general traffic manager of Sears, Roebuck and Co., urged at the Dec. 5 meeting of the Junior Traffic Club of Chicago that a new organization be formed to co-ordinate and police the nation's transportation industry.

He stated that such an organization would be created through the co-operative efforts of all five types of transportation. "Let it have plenary powers," said Mr. Williamson. "Let its first job be the immediate prohibition and abolition of the senseless and destructive competitive warfare now going on among the carriers."

He cited the Association of American Railroads as a "union of competitors" to show that the railroads can co-operate for their mutual good, but added pertinently that he was withholding his comment as to whether all its actions have been "wholly wise."

The top-heavy rate structure burden was attacked and Mr. Williamson suggested that a comparison be made between rate levels for the last 35 yrs. with "index variations of commodity price levels or with labor costs." He also stated that almost $15,000,000 of government money is being spent annually to maintain the regulatory commissions and that much of this expense is chargeable to hearing and deciding rate cases.

Rate levels, he stated, bear almost no relation to carrier prosperity and they bear absolutely no relation to general prosperity during the same period.

"The Interstate Commerce Act prohibits carriers from showing preference, prejudice, or discrimination," he stated. "Yet government itself keeps on, year after year, manifesting preference for some carriers, prejudice against others, and discrimination. Equality of competitive opportunity has not yet been provided; government competition with privately financed, taxed transportation, has not yet been eliminated. We talk and we talk and we do nothing. Out of all the meetings and conferences and expensive research, and passing of pious resolutions and press releases and reports, has come precisely nothing.

"During the last 20 yrs. we have doubled our transportation plant, or at least we have doubled the capacity of our carriers. Here is an example of excess transportation facilities. Between Chicago and Cleveland there are six railroads. Each can handle business without the necessity of transferring it to another carrier at an intermediate junction. There are also 32 common carrier truck lines. I don't know how many contract motor carriers there are. I don't know how many business houses are performing their own private transportation between Chicago and Cleveland.

"Between Chicago and Detroit there are six railroads and 32 common carrier truck lines. Between Chicago and the Twin Cities there are six railroads and 23 common carrier truck lines."

Deeming such available services excessive, Mr. Williamson stated that conflicts between carriers and the failure of rail and motor carriers to construct a reasonable classification have driven many commercial and industrial houses into private transportation. "Characterized by high supervisory cost and high percentage of empty track mileage," he continued, "this private transportation is not generally economically justified when we consider the whole national economy."

John T. Sasso, New Jersey representative of the Luckenbach Steamship Co. for the past 19 yrs. and located in the New Jersey area since 1923, was tendered a testimonial dinner by his many friends and business associates on Dec. 5 at the Robert Treat Hotel, Newark. Mr. Sasso has been promoted to district manager of the New England area and will maintain headquarters at Boston.

N. J. Lighterage Case Adjourned to April 9

What was to have been a 7-day hearing was ended on the 3rd day, Dec. 13, in New Jersey's third attempt to force the railroads to charge extra for lighterage service to New York. The postponement came as a surprise. Burton A. Fuller, the I.C.C. examiner conducting the hearing at the Hotel St. George, Brooklyn, adjourned the proceedings until April 9 and stated that in the meantime he would make a personal inspection tour of the Port of New York.

At the present time, freight is carried across the Hudson River to the New York side of the port with extra cost to the shippers. New Jersey interests assert that this is "unduly prejudicial" to them and "unduly preferential" to New York interests.

Upward of 50 railroads are named defendants in the action brought by Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City and the State of New Jersey. The present system of free lighterage has been fought by New Jersey for more than a decade, the claim being that this free service deprives its northern waterfront cities of "port equality" by denying them the privilege of benefiting by their natural advantages.

It is claimed that from $8,000,000 to $12,000,000 a year of service is supplied by the railroads, via free lighterage, to ships flying foreign flags. New Jersey is asking for a marine service charge on lighterage in New York Harbor for intercoastal, coastwise, import and export traffic. No charges are sought for domestic lighterage service.

The current application to have the I.C.C. examine the free lighterage situation is based on an amendment to the Interstate Commerce Act introduced by Governor A. Harry Moore, then U. S. Senator from New Jersey, and passed in Congress in 1937. Under this amendment, New Jersey has jurisdictional standing before the I.C.C.

The railroads, which are aligned with the State of New York in an effort to stop the New Jersey action, have argued that free lighterage is nothing but a "marine freight yard service," and is therefore an integral part of the railroad shipping service. New Jersey charges that lighterage, being a marine service, and railroading are two different branches of transportation.

Civic and industrial officials in New Jersey have taken the attitude that unless the lighterage charge is applied to intercoastal and coastwise shipments that pass through the New Jersey Harbor communities en route to New York, the future of New Jersey industry is gloomy. Under the current system, goods shipped to New York travel at the same rate as materials billed only as far as the freight terminals, such as Jersey City, Hoboken and Weehawken.

Most of the statistics presented the last day were concerned with the cost to the railroads of the free lighterage system. It was estimated in 1924 that the cost was $1.44 a ton. The average cost has increased since then, it was claimed, to about $1.50.

In earlier testimony, it was brought out that the N. Y. Central had submitted evidence to the I.C.C. estimating the cost of lighterage at $2.32 per ton. Lehigh Valley was claimed to have set the figure at $1.97 a ton in March, 1938. The cost at the Port of Newark for the direct interchange of freight from rails to ships was claimed to be 93 cents a ton.

When the case comes up again, New York and rail attorneys will cross-question the New Jersey witnesses. They said their questioning would require from a week to 10 days. Then they will present their case. This will be followed by a rebuttal. It is impossible to forecast how long the case will last. The last one, in which New Jersey was defeated, started in 1929 and was completed in 1934.

More Liberal Law Needed for West Coast Free Zone

The "manufacturing in transit" zone, plans for which are now being studied by the Harbor Commission of San Francisco, headed by J. F. Marias, would, according to the Commission, effect economies and result in the elimination of red tape for certain classifications of shippers. The Commission is attempting to work out a revised project for a free zone for San Francisco in order to reopen the matter at Washington.

It is admitted that the Federal law governing the establishment of free zones would have to be liberalized and amended in the case of San Francisco, especially to avoid objections found in the New York free zone and others that have been tried.

The Commission would set aside pier 45 as the free zone territory, this being the best and largest pier on the waterfront, having 400,000 sq. ft. of space.

Federal requirement for such a zone would necessitate a completely isolated and barricaded section on all sides, including the waterside. Because of the nature of the San Francisco waterfront, the Commission claimed it was not practicable to have a barricade on the waterside. The Government then proposed the installation of an electric eye but this also was regarded as impractical. According to estimates, it would cost between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000 to do what the Government wants. This is considered as being out of the question.

Warehousemen are not enthusiastic about the idea and are ready to oppose it, at least in principle. Action on the plan is not immediately imminent, due to the fact that Mr. Marias has been too involved as chairman of Governor Olson's strike fact-finding committee.—Gidlow.

Industry Urged to Use Ports of Pennsylvania

Richard P. Brown, Secretary of the Pennsylvania Department of Commerce, has sent letters to leaders of 12,000 Pennsylvania industrial concerns, urging them to ship through Pennsylvania ports whenever possible, thereby reducing the relief load and permitting a future reduction in taxes. The letter stressed that the Port of Philadelphia is served by 80 steamship lines and three Class I railroads that have access to waterfront piers, reaching 45 warehouses.—Lansing.

You can see Chicago's Loop skyscrapers in the near background (only ten minutes' distance away). The Chicago river and Ogden slip run parallel to the building, on the south. You'd have SERVICE . . . . a helpful, money saving service. You'd probably use our stevedores, our car loaders (unloaders), our checkers, our handy men, and decrease your own payroll and pay for such labor only when you'd use them.

Check these North Pier Terminal advantages. Our main building has 33 modern elevators to serve you quickly, efficiently. It has 1,500,000 square feet of floor space protected by a sprinkler system (our insurance rates are as low as 18c.). Space is for storage, for light manufacturing, for offices. You can store goods here on a unit basis for spot stocks. We offer storage in transit and pool car distribution. We have Internal Revenue Bonded space and Customs Bonded space for your convenience.

North Pier Terminal is the home dock for: Great Lakes Transit, Federal Motorship, Oranje Line, Federal Barge Line, Michigan Atlantic Motorship, and most of the tramp steamers. From here you'd have regular boat service to and from South America, Montreal, Atlantic Coast and Europe. You'd have barge service from New Orleans, Gulf and Pacific Coast Ports. For MORE information, write, wire or phone the North Pier Terminal Company.

Milwaukee Warehouse Tax Settlement

Circuit Judge Daniel W. Sullivan, presiding over a conciliation court Dec. 8 in Milwaukee, secured a settlement in a 16-yr.-old controversy over the right of Milwaukee and Milwaukee county to levy taxes against the Lincoln Fireproof Warehouse Co., Milwaukee.

The settlement resulted in the C.M.&St.P. owner of the warehouse, paying $48,689 to the city and $14,815 to the county in full settlement of taxes, interest and penalties from 1923 through 1937.

A total of $110,000 had been charged against the warehouse by the city and county during the period of the controversy. The warehouse company and the railroad claimed the warehouse was not subject to local taxation because it was on a railroad right of way.

Motions made during the litigation were taken to the state supreme court three times and to the United States supreme court once. Following the settlement, counsel for the warehouse company announced that the company had negotiated a new lease for the warehouse for a period of 32 years. The warehouse firm will pay future taxes.—W.T.N.B.

Hale, Milwaukee, Expands

After operating a modest warehouse in Milwaukee for some time, the Hale Warehouse Co. found expansion necessary, and has leased the 4-story building, with about 40,000 sq. ft., in the vicinity of Milwaukee's principal freight terminal district, near the Milwaukee Road's freight yards, from which the new warehouse location will be serviced.

In order to permit the loading and unloading of motor trucks, the building owners have put in an additional entrance in the front of the structure, to permit the entrance of the largest trucks. The warehouse company is owned by Harry J. Hale.—Hubel.

Cal. Requires Re-weighing of Some Commodities

California warehouses, effective Jan. 1, 1940, are called upon under the new food and cosmetic act to make changes in the weighing of beans and other commodities whose weight changes due to dehydration and other causes.

According to the new law, the weight of commodities must be taken at time of loading for transportation and recorded on bags or packages. In the case of beans, for example, these lose weight due to loss of water, and the custom in the past has been to record on the bags that the weight was 100 lbs. when packed. Now, the bags must be re-weighed prior to being loaded onto railroad cars and the weight at that time recorded.

The cost of weighing each bag will be 5 cents, or $1.00 per ton. This additional cost will be passed on to the shipper after the weighing is done by the warehouses. Other commodities are similarly affected.—Gidlow.

New Wiggin Terminal Descriptive Folder

Wiggin Terminals, Boston, has just issued an attractive and informative folder, containing a description of their plants and many illustrations.

The folder shows a drawing which includes the Wiggin Merchandise Terminal and the Wiggin Lumber Terminal in Charlestown and the Wiggin E Street Warehouse at South Boston, as well as the railroads, the ship channels, and the Boston airport at East Boston. There is also a chart, giving approximate truck and rail distances from Boston to New England industrial centers.—Wellington.

MERCHANTS WAREHOUSE is also adjacent to the new traffic tunnel, the shortest way to East Boston and northern New England. This ideal location offers shippers numerous advantages, including reduced delivery time and, not infrequently, lowered shipping costs.

The large, seven-story fireproof building, of masonry construction, provides a storage capacity of 200,000 square feet, bonded and free. This space is divided into four distinct sections of solid, fireproof partitions, thus earning a low insurance rating.

Equipment is modern and complete, consisting of whips, elevators and other facilities for the swift, safe handling of goods. Exceptional cleanliness throughout the warehouse creates a condition specially favorable for the storage of foodstuffs, vast quantities of which are received and shipped daily.

Property is served by the Union Freight Railroad. Thus flat Boston rates are applicable to and from warehouse.

Fatalities Only to Ducks

The recent annual duck hunting expedition run by George E. Martin, president of the Clark & Reid Co., Cambridge, Mass., and Curtis & Croston, Inc., Boston, took place at Mr. Martin's summer home in West Harwich, Mass., during the Thanksgiving week-end.

Edward G. Mooney, president of the Hartford Despatch and Warehouse Co., Inc., Hartford, Conn.; James E. Mulligan, head of the Knickerbocker Storage Warehouse Co., Newark, N. J.; Ed. Leach, president of Edward Leach, Montclair, N. J., and John A. Creamer, president of the Cady Moving & Storage Co., Providence, R. I., were guests.

The wives and families of the warehousemen were also along to see that any fatalities that might happen, would happen only to the ducks.

Phila. Port Relaxes Rules On Explosives Shipments

More lenient regulations governing the shipment of explosives from the Port of Philadelphia have been put into effect by the Navigation Commissioners of the Delaware River and the Philadelphia Fire Marshal's office. Ships' stores of explosive nature will be permitted to remain aboard vessels, the new regulations provide, so long as they are stored in magazines and have been inspected and passed by the proper Federal authorities. The new rules also permit the transshipment from lighters to vessels of ordnance ammunition and explosives for ships' stores, in any berth designated by the commisioners and, when in Philadelphia, between sunrise and sunset, with the approval of the fire marshal. The amounts involved are limited to 2500 lbs., unless special permit is obtained from the commissioners.—Lansing.

Kentucky Terminal Sets Up Overnight Service

In order to meet increased demands upon services offered shippers, the Kentucky Terminal Warehouse, Louisville, has set up an overnight service from the warehouse plant, by truck and rail, insuring delivery of all shipments within a radius of 200 miles of Louisville within 24 hrs. after receipt.

Chester A. Bell, manager, states that the company is regularly spotting merchandise, samples and advertising matter for sales crews at various points in this territory, thus saving hotel costs, traveling and transportation expense. "Merchandise seldom touches our warehouse floor under our new plan," Mr. Bell said. —Morris.

Full Crew Law Invalid, Rules Pa. High Court

The long-debated "Full Crew Act," passed by the 1937 session of the Pennsylvania Legislature, has been declared unconstitutional in a unanimous opinion of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court. The Act, backed by the railroad brotherhoods and opposed by the railroad companies as unreasonable and arbitrary, would have required an extra brakeman for every freight train over 50 cars in length and for every passenger train over 5 cars in length, thus greatly increasing the costs of operation.—Lansing.

Tri-State Output At 2-Yr. Peak

Industrial production in the three areas of Pennsylvania, Southern New Jersey and Delaware, included in what is generally known as the "Philadelphia selling area," has reached its highest level in 2 yrs., according to the Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia, in its report for December. Industrial employment in the city of Philadelphia increased 6 per cent from September to October and payrolls advanced 16 per cent in the same period. In 2 mos., Pennsylvania factories have added 73,000 workers and increased their payrolls by $3,700,000. Bank deposits have greatly increased. The current level of plant activity is placed at 25 per cent more than in October of 1938.—Lansing.

H.H.G. Storage-in-Transit Permitted in Tariff

According to Tilden L. Childs, District Director of the I.C.C. Bureau of Motor Carriers, storage-in-transit of household goods for a period not to exceed 30 days is informally considered to be permitted under Rule 23 in Agent Holman's tariff.

The release by Mr. Childs reads as follows:

"The Bureau of Motor Carriers informally has held that Rule 23 in Agent Holman's tariff provides that shipments of household goods may enjoy storage-in-transit for a period not exceeding 30 days, and names charges for such storage. Under this rule, the Bureau is of the opinion that the rates in effect at the time the shipment is delivered to the carrier will apply on the movement from the transit point. In other words, whether such rate would apply on the measurement or weight basis would be determined under the above facts and assuming that the carrier is given instructions for movement to an interstate point but is instructed to store the shipment at point of origin for less than 31 days.

"Where no instructions are given for the final movement prior to storage, it is the opinion, in view of the terms of the considered tariff, that such shipments are completed when placed in storage, and the rate to apply from the storage point is that in effect when the shipper gives the carrier authority for performing the outbound movement, resulting in the use of the weight basis in this case."

BUFFALO N.Y.

Unsurpassed Warehousing and Distributing Facilities

Located in the shipping and warehousing center of a large and prosperous market covering western New York and Pennsylvania, northern Ohio, and all the Lake and St. Lawrence River ports, including the Canadian. Thus, shippers transacting business within this area are in a position to enjoy many advantages not available elsewhere.

Docks are served directly by Great Lakes Transit Corp. steamers and New York Barge Canal lines, affording transportation economies that materially reduce shipping costs. There are direct track connections with the Pennsylvania Railroad and the New York Central, and reciprocal switching to all other railroads entering the city. Capacity, 50 cars daily, with all loading and unloading under cover. Pool car distribution. Warehouses are also served by all suburban trucking companies.

Buildings are of modern construction and enjoy low insurance rates. Adequate equipment is maintained to assure prompt, safe and efficient handling, and exceptional facilities are provided for the storage and shipping of goods of all kinds, in any quantities. Established 1903. Capital, $900,000.

Independent Warehouses in the New York Market

Flexible Distribution

● Manufacturers requiring a most flexible handling and distribution service, can profit by the facilities we place at their disposal in the Metropolitan New York Market. To localize shipments, without increasing branch office overhead, is to speed your service, lower handling costs and insure the satisfaction of local jobbers, dealers and consumers.

Convenient to Terminals

● Independent Warehouses are strategically located convenient to all rail and water terminals in the New York Market, only short haul cartage from every important terminal on the New Jersey, Manhattan and Brooklyn shores. The marvellous facilities of the United States Trucking Corporation, ranging from light delivery motors to fleets of large capacity trucks and trailers, insures most efficient pick-up and delivery at low cost—flexible and rapid cartage service.

Reaching Out By Truck

● Whether delivery to Jobber, Department, Chain or Drug Stores, or to any of the millions of consumers in Manhattan, Brooklyn and Bronx, a twenty-four hour delivery is systematically maintained and extended to Long Island and nearby New Jersey points, within a radius of fifteen miles. Deliveries are made the day shipping orders are received; to outlying points in the Metropolitan market deliveries are made not later than the day following receipt of order.

Warehousing

● Fireproof and modern structures . . . low insurance rates . . . modern material handling facilities . . . spacious elevators, loading and unloading devices . . . Guardite Vacuum Tank Fumigation Facilities . . . inventories—daily, weekly, monthly or perpetual . . . full reports on receipts and delivery orders . . . execution telephone orders . . . issuance of negotiable and non-negotiable receipts, acceptable by all banks . . . drafts or orders against bills of lading executed promptly . . . a money-saving service.

Pool Car Distribution

● Facilities and experience make these Warehouses ideal for pool car distribution. Wholesale houses, jobbers and merchants call here daily for one or more deliveries of nationally known brands on storage and pick up these pool car consignments at the same time.

Imports and Exports

● Customs regulations are exacting, and sometimes involved. Functioning under a Customs License, we can prepare the necessary documents for import shipments, Custom House entry, duties, ocean freights, withdrawal of import merchandise from bond, etc.
In shipping for export we similarly handle the preparation of Custom declarations, consular invoices, ocean bills of lading, compilation of shipping documents, drafts, marine insurance and forwarding shipments and documents to banks and ultimate consignee.

We invite your correspondence on any or all features of our Warehouse-Distribution-Trucking Service:

At a meeting on Dec. 11, the members of the New York Furniture Warehousemen's Assn. were given an outline of how the association expects to secure relief from the high cost of compensation insurance. As part of the program, the association has agreed to have a clearing house through which all employees' accident cases will be reported and case history developed. E. H. Seaman, consulting engineer, New York, has been appointed to handle all accident reports of the members.

Ohio Liquor Transport Award Upheld—Retail Prices Drop

Action of Ohio State Liquor Director J. B. Taylor in awarding a contract for the transportation of liquor to Ohio Deliveries, Inc., has been upheld. Litigation was started by Aller & Sharp, Inc., Columbus, which claimed "gross abuse of discretion" in the award. The latter was given at 10½ cents a case. Aller & Sharp had bid 10 cents.

As a result of the award, the Ohio Department of Liquor Control has reduced the retail prices of 226 brands of liquors from 2 to 21 cents a quart.—Kline.

Allied Van's Hearing Before I.C.C. Extended to Feb. 19

The 7 days in December during which the Interstate Commerce Commission heard testimony at the formal hearing on the granting of certificate of operations to Allied Van Lines, Inc., under its grandfather rights, and the convenience and necessity for further developing its service, marked an important milestone in Allied's progress toward full compliance with the provisions of the Motor Carrier Act.

The hearing was held in Chicago at the Sherman Hotel, and was presided over by Examiners Johnston and Freidson. Convening on Dec. 11, the hearing proceeded through Dec. 18, at which time it was continued until Feb. 19.

Testimony emphasizing the convenience and necessity of Allied's continued operations was presented by a group of traffic executives of large national organizations.

We receive annually millions of dollars worth of merchandise from nationally known manufacturers for delivery to their customers in Pacific states, also Central states and intermediate region. The experience of this organization is more than 33 years without a loss to any customer. This Company's financial responsibility is unquestioned. Its personnel includes some who have been active in directing the business from the time of establishment in 1906.

All employees are efficient and reliable, also conscious of the importance for strict attention to detailed instructions. Storing spot stocks here is not only a selling stimulator for the trade already established, but economically safer as an experimental venture in new territory than leasing or purchasing a building, because the salesmanager is not hampered by problems of operation and maintenance.

Grandfather Rights Voided by Bankrupt's Service Break

Discontinuance of a motor carrier's operations because of bankruptcy has been ruled by the I.C.C. as being within the carrier's control and, therefore, voids a carrier's claim to grandfather rights.

The I.C.C. ruling upheld a previous order of the Motor Carrier Division denying a grandfather certificate to the Gregg Cartage & Storage Co., Cleveland. The Division ruled that the Gregg company's bankruptcy and the resulting interruption of service were within the company's control, and that since its operations had not been continuous since June 1, 1935, as required by the Motor Carrier Act, it was not entitled to grandfather rights.

The Commission in its ruling stated: "We concur in the conclusion that voluntary and involuntary bankruptcy are within the control of the bankrupt and that he is responsible for the legal consequences that flow from the adjudication."

A receiver, appointed by the courts in October, 1937, sold the operating rights in December, 1938, applied to the I.C.C. for approval of the transaction.

The ruling stated: "The attempted sale, of course, was ineffective without our approval and in no wise impaired the legal ability of the receiver to continue the operations until that approval was obtained. Hence, the breach of the continuity of operations is to be ascribed to the bankruptcy for the period after as well as before the sale.

"Our holding in abeyance the application for approval had no significance or effect upon the crucial fact that no operations of any kind have been conducted from the time the receiver in bankruptcy took charge, and it is useless to speculate upon the question whether the grandfather right expired before or after the sale."

Warehouseman a Leader in Cramp Reopening Plan

George M. Richardson, vice-president of the Merchants' Warehouse Co., Philadelphia, and chairman of the City Council-appointed Citizens' Committee, with members of that committee, including councilmen and city, state and Federal officials, on Dec. 5 discussed the matter of reopening the William Cramp & Son Ship & Engine Building Co.

Two steps marking progress in the proposal to rehabilitate the once-teeming yard on the Delaware River at Kensington were brought forward, after Justice Department officials and banking spokesmen had issued a bluntly-worded ultimatum to holders of the controlling interest in the shipbuilding concern. These steps were:

Agreement on the part of the holders of $600,000 principal amount of Cramp's first mortgage bonds to deposit with the Land Title Bank & Trust Co., 2 checks totaling $250,552.89—the amount tentatively decided upon in compromise of the city and Navy Department liens, amounting to almost $2,250,000, and

Announcement by Mr. Richardson that he will endeavor to arrange a conference between attorneys representing holders of the first mortgage bonds and Philadelphia bankers, in order to determine what financing, if any, would be mutually satisfactory.

At this session, held in City Hall, Chairman Richardson for the first time disclosed that he had a positive pledge on the part of a Philadelphia banking group that it would match, dollar for dollar, with the Harriman interests of New York in refinancing the yard. He added that Philadelphia bankers were not prepared to invest money therein unless the Harrimans demonstrated their confidence in a plan of reorganization by doing likewise on a "fifty-fifty" basis. The spokesmen for the Orama Securities Corp., which holds the $600,000 first mortgage bonds, was George K. Ellis, of the law firm of Clark, Carr & Ellis, 120 Broadway, New York. Mr. Ellis had a letter announcing the first mortgage bondholders' willingness to post $100,000 to satisfy a Navy Department lien of approximately $1,100,000, and the sum of $50,552.89 to satisfy the city's compromise on a $1,100,000 delinquent tax lien, plus taxes for 1939. He made it plain that the interests he represents would not only not take any lead in the discussions leading to reopening the yard, but would not contribute funds to that end.—Lansing.

Car Demurrage Cut to $1.20 During Strike

The I.C.C., in a decision made on Dec. 20, ruled that demurrage charges on railroad cars delayed in 1934 on the West Coast, due to the longshoremen's strike, were unreasonable to the extent that they exceeded $1.20 a car-day, excluding free time.

The Commission also stated that it would not undertake to prescribe a demurrage rule for the future since the whole matter is being discussed by representatives of shippers and carriers, and if they can agree on a rule, it would be unnecessary for the I.C.C. to act on such a rule. The decision came in Docket 27,217, complaint of Balfour, Guthrie Co., and others against various railroads.

The decision reverses the ruling of Division No. 2 of the Commission, which held on Aug. 12, 1937, that the demurrage rules and charges were reasonable, and dismissed the complaint of shippers.

In ordering reduction of the demurrage charges from $3.00 to $1.20 a day and authorizing reparations, the Commission declared that the railroads should not be permitted to make sizable profits at the expense of shippers who were unable to release the cars because of strike conditions.

In reaching this conclusion, the Commission overruled Division No. 2 which held that the record in the case was inadequate to determine what portion of the $3.00 charges represented penalty charges.

The I.C.C. cited its recent decision in the Chrysler case as authority for its action, holding the longshoremen's strike was in effect, a strike against transportation facilities over which the shippers had no control. "While such a condition should not relieve the shipper from liability of reimbursing the carrier for expense, it suffered from detention of its equipment, there is no sound reason why defendants should be permitted to collect charges designed to force release of such equipment, that are substantially in excess of the cost of furnishing the cars," the Commission said.

Commissioner Splawn dissented with Commissioner Patterson. They declared that the majority decision will have the effect of creating car shortages "for the reason that it fails to take into account the fundamental purpose of demurrage charges, i.e., to stimulate the prompt release of equipment and thus avoid serious handicaps to efficient operation and adequate service." They urged that before the Commission revises demurrage charges, shippers and carriers throughout the country should have an opportunity to be heard that this "isolated case" should not result in findings which in "all probability will have extensive application."

Borgman Elected President of Mich. F.W.A.

At the annual meeting of the Michigan Furniture Warehousemen's Assn., at the Detroit Leland Hotel, Dec. 6, wage and hour and other laws and regulations pertaining to the industry were discussed and interpreted, and officers for the coming year were elected.

Forms were distributed for warehousemen to apply for exemption from the Michigan department of agriculture, as required under the Farm Produce Storage Act, being Act No. 141 of the Public Acts of 1939.

The Farm Produce Storage Act requires that all warehouses and elevators receiving or offering to receive farm produce, such as beans, small grains, corn, potatoes, grass and legume seeds grown in Michigan, must be licensed. The necessary personnel to administer this act is vested in the Bureau of Agricultural Industry, Lansing, of which Miles A. Nelson is director.

Warehousemen who operate under the Uniform Warehouse Receipts Act are exempt from the Michigan regulations, but application must be made before exemption from the state law can be granted. Application must be made to Director Nelson, or his office.

The association voted to hold a joint meeting with the Indiana Household Movers Assn. at Wawassee, Ind., next summer, on a date to be determined later.

The following officers were elected to serve during the coming year:

President—John F. Borgman, Grand Rapids Storage Co., Grand Rapids.

Vice-president—H. W. Tanner, Tanner Fireproof Warehouses, Detroit.

Vice-president—Household Goods Storage Division, W. J. Croul, Riverside Storage and Cartage Co., Detroit.

Vice-president, Moving Division—F. P. Allen, Allen Storage and Moving Co., Flint.

Directors—William Ivory, John F. Ivory Co., Detroit; A. H. Stevens, Stevens Bros. Fireproof Warehouse, Saginaw; E. F. Raseman, Jr., National Storage Co., Kalamazoo.

Secretary—B. C. Hubbard, Elston Packing & Storage Co., Grand Rapids.

Treasurer—D. A. Mote, Fireproof Storage Co., Lansing.—Jenkins.

Now Ready!!

TOTALLY REVISED 1939 EDITION

McGOLDRICK'S HANDBOOK CANADIAN CUSTOMS-EXCISE TARIFF

The 49th Edition, of The Handbook of Canadian Customs-Excise Tariffs, is now ready for distribution.

There is included the revision of the United States and French Trade Agreement with Canada, together with Canadian Trade Agreements, between British and Foreign Countries. Also the War Budget.

In its present form, it is the most concise and dependable Customs compendium published.

Complete information on the Customs Act, the War Revenue Act, and Regulations founded on them is given in the first three hundred pages. In the following eight hundred pages the tariff is arranged in both alphabetical and group form. The Alphabetical section is arranged for ready reference and is a simplification of the group. The group section is a reproduction of the official tariff with the rates under all tariffs and treaties, and the classification requirement specially designated, in blue coloured paper.

Another feature is the information on invoicing with specimen forms, on SALES TAX, EXCISE TAX, AND THE EXEMPTIONS THEREFROM, DRAWBACKS, MARKING, DUMPING, Etc., with covering regulations.

The fact that the Handbook is so generally used indicates its value to importers and for buyers and foreign representatives.

IN THE Cold Storage FIELD

Quick-Freeze Problems in the Cold Storage Industry

By Van Rensselaer H. Greene

A GREAT deal has been said and written about the trends in cold storage design towards an increased amount of freezer space, because of the seemingly permanent loss of cooler business.

Most of the increase in freezer space thus far has been filled with quick-frozen foods, and this new industry, if it can be properly taken care of, promises to be cold storage's saving grace. It is commonly reported that the growth of the quick-frozen food industry would indicate a volume five-fold greater than at the present time within the next 10 yrs.

If these figures are anything like accurate, far more freezer space than now exists must be made available. The two underlying problems which do affect the future of the quick-frozen food industry are the shrinkage of the product at the time of freezing—this dehydration causes a serious loss in flavor and vitamin content—and the ability of the freezer to carry the goods for a period of time without further desiccation.

Freezing temperatures are produced by the cooling of air coming into contact with pipes which within them contain a refrigerating medium, and the ability to produce a rate of flow of heat to the cold body depends upon the temperature of the refrigerant in the pipes which must be lower than that of the air coming in contact with them. It is usual practice to design these coils for a refrigerant temperature of from 10 degs. to 15 degs. below that of the air temperature. This means then that unless water is added to the air that in time the moisture content of the air will become equal to that of the temperature of the cooling coils, and this 15 degs. temperature difference between the air and refrigerant temperature produces a relative humidity at zero degrees F. of about 60 per cent. This exceedingly dry air being hungry for moisture, draws its supply from the products stored.

In quick-frozen systems themselves much has been done to improve this situation by the installation of a large number of square feet of cooling surface, so that the temperature difference between the refrigerant in the pipes and the air outside is reduced to a minimum. Even at its best, however, it is rather difficult to produce a shrinkage of less than 1½ per cent to 2 per cent before the amount of coil surface becomes burdensome and too expensive for commercial practice. However, this is a great improvement over the 15 deg. temperature difference commonly used to date because, under these conditions the shrinkage may run as high as 6 per cent.

When it comes, however, to the keeping of goods in cold storage freezers, the problem is not so simple because of the excessive amount of coil surface required and the loss of storage space which such an amount of coil surface would entail. Further, the expense would hardly justify the move. There has also arisen a considerable problem as to how to determine relative humidity in freezing space, because the standard method using the Sling Psychrometer is not accurate at temperatures below the freezing point. It is, however, interesting to note the activity which has been developed recently along the line of curing the above ills, and up to the present time two rather simple methods have been evolved for the determination of the relative humidity in freezers.

A number of recent attempts have also been made to control humidity in freezers by the introduction of steam, highly atomized, or even in some cases atomized water vapor, but so far these have not produced necessarily satisfactory results because the extra moisture so added separates out far too quickly and freezes on the pipes as frost. There are, however, a number of ideas in the making which would indicate that it is possible to solve this problem economically and satisfactorily, and I think more will be heard along these lines in the immediate future.

It is interesting to note that the drying power of air at a temperature of 20 below zero with a relative humidity of 60 per cent is the same as a zero degree air temperature with relative humidity of slightly higher than 90 per cent. Manifestly, it is not possible to operate successfully from a financial standpoint a cold storage room at 20 degs. below zero, but it is standard practice to maintain rooms of from zero to 5 and 10 below and, under these conditions with a means of definitely increasing the humidity content to 90 per cent, the problem of drying out the food can be definitely eliminated.

Monthly Space Occupancy Reports Planned

According to William Broxton, of the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., plans are set to issue a monthly report which will indicate the percentage of available refrigerated space that is occupied.

During the 20-odd years that cold storage statistics have been collected, the reports have covered stocks on hand the first of each month, and biennial surveys of the capacity of warehouses.

"Information on warehouse occupancy," states Mr. Croxton, "is of value to the refrigerated warehouse industry and to the general public in that it will show to what extent existing facilities are adequate or inadequate to preserve perishable agricultural commodities."

The new survey will make it possible to evaluate the economic distribution of refrigerated warehouses, or, in other words, to indicate to what extent the industry has overbuilt or underbuilt in any particular area. The various studies of the data collected by this survey, in addition to contributing new knowledge of agricultural marketing factors, will be of incalculable value in case of national emergency.

The new report will be restricted to public warehouses and will not represent a complete enumeration, as is the case with the monthly report of cold storage holdings. There is a reason for this. Public warehouses endeavor to keep operating at full capacity at all times, and they accept practically all perishable commodities for storage. A large number of the so-called "private warehouses," on the other hand, are operated only on a seasonal basis for one or two commodities, such as apples or pears. To include such warehouses in a space occupancy report would tend to distort the true situation, stated Mr. Croxton.

Canadian Cold Storage Holdings Drop

Amount of creamery butter held in storage in Canada on Dec. 1 declined to 49,758,417 lbs. from 53,439,929 on the corresponding day of 1938, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reports. Dairy butter holdings also decreased to 171,432 lbs. from 475,789.

Other holdings, with figures for the corresponding day of 1938 in brackets: cheese 34,157,296 lbs. (32,294,350); whole milk products 9,541,477 lbs. (17,990,516); milk by-products 4,353,362 lbs. (8,889,601); cold storage eggs 1,600,345 dozen (2,528,805); fresh eggs 373,336 dozen (295,392); frozen eggs 4,275,388 lbs. (3,491,833); poultry 3,483,925 lbs. (6,872,471).

Pork 47,137,339 lbs. (24,876,517); beef 26,215,460 lbs. (12,250,051); mutton and lamb 6,290,680 lbs. (5, 361,557); veal 4,569,651 lbs. (4,797,612).

Frozen fresh fish 32,195,401 lbs. (33,708,352); dried, pickled and salted fish 3,454,777 lbs. (7,690,111); frozen smoked fish 2,486,126 lbs. (figures included in dried, pickled and salted).

Canadian apples 8,043,495 bushels (5,617,051); pears 18,487 bushels (27,360); frozen fruit 6,878,767 lbs. (6,832,012); potatoes 380,692 tons (219,712); onions 21,072 tons (13,097); celery 235,667 crates (189,334).—Carmichael.

1,861 Locker Plants

The Extension Service of the United States Department of Agriculture has issued the following figures, as of July, 1939, on freezer locker plants in the United States:

Number states reporting plants	38
Total number of plants	1,861
Locker plants operating in connection with another business	77%
Cooperative locker plants	10%
Number of plants reported in July, 1938	1,269

The analysis shows that the State of Iowa has the greatest number of locker plants, namely 350. Next in size are Washington with 260, Minnesota with 179, Oregon with 160, Wisconsin with 153, Nebraska with 130, and Illinois with 113. Connecticut, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maine, Massachusetts, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Mexico, Rhode Island, and South Carolina, had no plants.

Lockers in the South

The Frozen Food Lockers Co., Dyersburg, Tenn., organized April, 1939, has opened locker plants in Jackson, Union City and Memphis, Tenn. Another plant is located at West Memphis, Ark.

The company uses Palco wool insulation in an 8 to 10-in. wall. Forty per cent of the lockers are drawer type and 60 per cent with doors. The charge for quick-freezing is 1 cent per pound. The temperature of the chill room is kept at from 34 to 36 degs. The temperature in sharp-freezing is minus 15. Storage charges are $10 per year for the door type locker, and $12.50 for the drawer type.—McDonald.

Fast-Frozen and Slow-Frozen Products Described

Meat products can properly be described as fast-frozen only when water originally in its fibers solidifies without being forced out of the fiber, according to facts brought out by C. H. Koonz and J. M. Ramsbottom, research men in the laboratories of Swift & Co. They reported also in an article appearing in the Dec. 25 issue of the Food Field Reporter that when the water is lost during the freezing, the product should be described as slow-frozen.

Koonz and Ramsbottom have demonstrated the actual occurrence of such intra-fiber freezing at extremely slow temperatures and extra-fiber freezing at temperatures just below zero. They point out that when considering frozen tissues, the fluid or water contained within the muscle fiber is of primary interest, since the water external to the fibers is small in comparison to the total amount of water in the muscle tissue.

In order to study the effect of various freezing temperatures on the formation of ice within and outside the fiber, these research workers devised a laboratory apparatus in which frozen tissues are dehydrated in vacuum. The purpose of this procedure is to fix the fibers in their frozen form. With this method, the spaces occupied by ice during freezing appear upon histological examination as holes or vacuoles.

It was also found that if a small piece of chicken muscle several millimeters in diameter is frozen in acetone filled with dry ice to —75.6 degs. C. (1104 deg. F.), freezing is accomplished in a few seconds and the muscle tissue closely resembles tissue never frozen, because the ice crystals are uniformly distributed and extremely small.

When tissues were frozen in aircooled to approximately — 48.4 degs. C. (— 55 degs. F.), the fibers were found to be distorted and were characterized by jagged outer surfaces. It was found that during freezing, water had been displaced to the outer boundaries of the fibers, but remained within the limit of the sarcolemma or outer covering of the muscle fiber.

On the other hand, when fowl tissue was frozen in air at about —40 degs. C. (—40 degs. F.), the water was frozen within the fibers, accumulating approximately in the center of the fibers in the form of large ice columns.

At —35.6 degs. C. (—32 degs. F.), intra-fiber freezing occurs in some fibers, while others lose their water, which then freezes externally.

Birds frozen in air at —26.1 degs. C. (—15 degs. F.), showed extra-fiber freezing exclusively; in this case the constituent fibers are highly compressed as a result of the pressure created by the external ice formation.

At still higher temperatures such as —13.3 degs. C. + 8 degs. F.), the ice formations become still larger and fewer in number and the fibers are forced into compact-ridge or band-like formations, characteristic of muscle tissues which has been slowly frozen.

Proposed Carload Rates on Poultry with Frozen Foods

A proposal has been made which would permit carload rates to apply on poultry from California, Oregon, Arizona, Nevada, Mexico, New Mexico and Utah to all destinations in the West, East and South, when shipped in mixed carloads with frozen fruits, vegetables, fish and other frozen foods, though the weight of the poultry amounts to a less-than-carload quantity.

If this proposal is approved, it is felt that shippers of poultry will be unable to avail themselves of the privilege of shipping less-than-carload quantities of poultry at the carload rate unless they also ship prepared frozen foods in the same car in order to make the minimum carload weight of the mixture.

The Western Trunk Line Committee Application No. D-69-21 proposes to establish a Class 8 basis of rates (30 per cent of first class), minimum weight 30,000 lbs., on egg case or egg carrier fillers or flats, fibreboard, pulpboard or strawboard, flat, folded flat, knocked down or nested, or cup flats, nested, in boxes or bundles, in straight or mixed carloads, from points in Western Trunk Line territory to destinations in Southern Freight Assn. territory. The present basis is Class 7 (35 per cent of first class), minimum weight 30,000 lbs.

Improvements at Harrisburg Cold Storage Warehouse

Between $85,000 and $100,000 is being spent in remodeling the former Merchant's Ice & Coal Co., according to H. H. Clark, who recently acquired the property. The building is being remodeled for public cold storage and frozen-food locker service. A portion has already been leased to the Wilson & Co., meat packers.—Shelley.
